PUBLIC MEETING MINUTES

Documents:

- July 14, 2022, Commissioner Roy letter regarding suitability
- September 22, 2023, Draft Regulations

In Attendance:

- Commissioner Nurys Z. Camargo
- Commissioner Kimberly Roy
- Commissioner Bruce Stebbins
- Acting Chair Ava Callender Concepcion

Minutes:

1) Call to Order

- The Acting Chair recognized a quorum and called the meeting to order.
- The Acting Chair gave notice that the meeting is being recorded.
- The Acting Chair gave an overview of the agenda.

2) Commissioners' Comments & Updates – 00:01:28

- The Acting Chair (AC) asked all Commissioners if anyone had any opening comments. No Commissioners had opening comments.
- The AC pointed out the significant moment and thanked everyone who had been with them internally and externally.

3) Commission Discussion and Votes – 00:02:00

1. Draft Adult Use and Medical Use of Marijuana Regulations

- The AC asked Acting General Counsel Andrew Carter (AGC Carter) to introduce the section for discussion on Municipal Equity.
 - AGC Carter guided the Commission's attention to 935 Code Mass. Regs. § 500.181, Subsection 5, of Equity Standards for Positively Impacting Communities that were Disproportionately harmed by Marijuana Prohibition and Enforcement.

- The AC proposed new language that would amend Subsection (5)(a) and strike Subsection (b). She voiced the reasons the language required amendment.
 - Commissioner Stebbins expressed agreement with the proposed language and recognized its ability to establish a standard. He inquired about the possibility of incorporating a social equity business group. He discussed the potential development of future guidance that would focus on creating job opportunities for residents as another component of the plan.
 - The AC concurred with Commissioner Stebbins and suggested further context around the proposed language. She emphasized that incorporating the language would ensure that Positive Impact Plans (PIPs) from licensees would align with the standards and requirements set by municipalities and host communities.
 - Director of Licensing Kyle Potvin (Director Potvin) commented that the five populations are already established as Areas of Disproportionate Impact by the Commission’s policy. He added that when applicants and licensees are developing a PIP, they can pick one or more of those five groups to have a positive impact. He said that having the same standard for municipalities would make sense.
 - The AC added that she will find the language to make the plan accessible for the public.
 - Enforcement Counsel Rebecca Lopez (EC Lopez) added that she agreed with Director Potvin. She stated she believed that it was reasonable to apply to municipalities the same standard currently applied to licensees.
- Commissioner Roy proposed amended language to the title for Subsection (5).
 - The AC agreed.
 - Commissioner Camargo agreed with Commissioner Roy.
 - The AC read her proposed language in its entirety.
 - Commissioner Roy asked if they should add another sentence and proposed additional language.
 - Director Potvin offered language that was slightly modified. He added that the language already existed in the Commission’s regulations as it pertained to PIPs for applicants and licensees.
 - Commissioner Roy stated she lifted her language from the guidance and Director Potvin lifted his from regulations.
 - The AC agreed.
- AGC Carter asked Investigations and Enforcement Project Manager Mercedes Erickson (Manager Erickson) to ensure they had captured the edits and consensus of the Commission before moving onto the next section.
- Commissioner Roy asked the AC if the language she proposed was replacing Subsection (a).
 - The AC answered that it would.
- Commissioner Roy raised a question regarding Subsection (b)(1) and expressed the importance of avoiding any negative impact on the Cannabis Social Equity Trust Fund.

- The AC answered that the whole thing would be stricken and added that this language would be the only language unless there are recommendations.
- Commissioner Camargo noted she wanted to add municipality into the title to add clarity.
- EC Lopez asked if the Commissioners would be establishing criteria for donations to the Cannabis Social Equity Trust Fund.
 - The AC answered that they would not.
 - EC Lopez mentioned that her advice with respect to that was put on the record at the last meeting.
 - The AC asked EC Lopez to refresh their memory.
 - EC Lopez stated that the statute does obligate the Commission to promulgate regulations that establish criteria for licensees to donate to the Cannabis Social Equity Trust Fund.
 - The AC mentioned that the language was currently on page 32 of their hard copy and that was why she suggested removing it on page 78. She added that the language on page 32 satisfied that statutory requirement.
 - EC Lopez stated that this is a difference that the Board may want to contemplate.
 - Commissioner Roy expressed gratitude to EC Lopez and inquired about the notification process. She suggested that part of the criteria could include businesses notifying the Commission upon renewal if they made donations to their PIP.
 - Director Potvin clarified that if Commissioner Roy was referring to licensees updating them on their progress towards their goals and PIP, that it was already a preexisting requirement during the renewal process.
 - Commissioner Camargo asked if a required criteria would be when they would have approval to commence operation.
 - EC Lopez answered that it could be an example of criteria because the language stated criteria allowed Marijuana Establishments (MEs) and Medical Marijuana Treatment Centers (MTCs) to satisfy their PIP by donating in part to the fund. She added this is a policy space that the Commission could explore. She stated there is a permissibility expectation in terms of the Commission setting the criteria.
 - Commissioner Camargo made a recommendation to include as one of the criteria whether the licensee had commenced operations or obtained approval for commencing operations.
 - Commissioner Stebbins agreed and mentioned that he wanted to add upon commencing operations that the ME may satisfy the requirement to donate.
- The AC asked if Commissioner Stebbins would like for the existing language to remain for Subsection (b)(1), and then she proceeded to read the language. She asked if everyone was okay with that language remaining.
 - Commissioner Stebbins and Commissioner Camargo agreed.
- Commissioner Roy voiced that she was curious what Director Potvin had to offer.

- Director Potvin stated that based on the conversation earlier in the meeting, there were some recommendations from certain Commissioners that Subsection (5) under 935 Code Mass. Regs. § 500.181 applied to municipalities and that having that language about licensees could cause confusion. He concurred with EC Lopez. He offered his recommendation as being more appropriate.
- The AC stated that she believed the confusion could be rectified by the title of Subsection (5). She added that she agreed with her fellow Commissioners about including the language and that they could make sure the title did not cause any confusion.
- Director Potvin acknowledged that the suggested solution might be simpler than his original recommendation, as it offered clarity.
- Commissioner Stebbins asked EC Lopez if establishing criteria would be enough on page 32 to satisfy their obligations with the statute.
 - EC Lopez stated she would prefer the Commissioners came up with another criterion as criteria is plural.
- Commissioner Roy asked the AC for clarification.
 - The AC answered that it would be the same section and the language would remain but they would align the title with the section so there was no added confusion.
 - Commissioner Roy asked if there was opposition to moving the language to the other section that Director Potvin suggested.
 - The AC responded affirmatively.
- Commissioner Stebbins asked EC Lopez if a second criteria could be to offer another time frame in which a licensee or ME could make a donation. He added that if more than one condition was required by statute that he would rather see it related to timing.
 - Director Potvin thanked Commissioner Stebbins for his proposal. He added that renewals were attached to the annual renewal requirements. He stated he saw a potential conflict and offered a possible solution regarding the first renewal after they have commenced operations.
 - The AC suggested that Commissioner Stebbins could add any additional comments.
 - Commissioner Stebbins thanked the AC and stated he appreciated Director Potvin's ideas. He voiced that he was happy with any language where it would give flexibility to small businesses to contribute. He added that he liked the idea around making the donation upon commencing operations, or on their one-year anniversary of commencing operations.
 - The AC voiced that there is an opportunity to add criteria that provided clarity. She wondered if the additional criteria would add clarity by stating that in order to contribute that the business would also need to have an additional component to their PIP.
- EC Lopez asked the Commissioners if there were a minimum number of objectives that they would accept a licensee to pursue in addition to the PIP and what they would like to see.

- Commissioner Stebbins stated his initial reaction was that they are producing some type of chilling effect on the option to give a contribution, by requiring another component of the plan due to them already fulfilling their obligations under the PIP. He mentioned he saw the worthy intentions, but he also saw the possibility of a licensee shying away from making a contribution to the Cannabis Social Equity Trust Fund, and just confining themselves to two elements of the PIP.
- The AC noted that the law does not allow a business to completely satisfy a PIP simply by donating. She added the importance of adding clarity to explain that this alone is not sufficient under Chapter 180.
- Commissioner Camargo asked a clarifying question regarding if it was a mandate to have two conditions for criteria.
 - AGC Carter answered that the word “criteria” is plural so therefore they should think about the legislative language before them as plural as opposed to singular. He added that it would be legal advice to follow the language as it was written. He noted that Commissioner Stebbins’ and EC Lopez’s suggestions were interesting and that they had a few different areas for the Board to contemplate.
 - Commissioner Stebbins noted that the donation only gets businesses halfway to fulfilling the obligations for the PIP. He suggested setting those two pieces aside and focusing on what the other criteria could be, making it clearer for the applicant as they are putting their PIP together.
- The AC proposed language from Kevin Gilnack from the Massachusetts Equitable Opportunities Now and read it to the Board. She asked her fellow Commissioners for their thoughts and input.
 - Commissioner Camargo noted confusion regarding licensees and municipalities.
 - The AC clarified that Subsection (5)(a) is for municipalities and Subsection (5)(b) is for licensees. She added that Subsection (b) is a requirement as EC Lopez stated. She noted that the Commission had to create criteria in order for licensees to make contributions to the Cannabis Social Equity Trust Fund based on the law. She added that essentially Subsection (a) is about municipal PIPs.
 - Commissioner Camargo thanked the AC for the clarification. She added that she liked the language and was curious what other folks thought.
 - Commissioner Roy added the possibility of the criteria including consumer education, by requiring the licensee provide patients and consumers with a short description on the Cannabis Social Equity Trust Fund.
 - Commissioner Stebbins expressed confusion regarding Subsection (5), under Municipality Equity, and suggested that they should focus on requirements imposed on municipalities or host communities. He noted that he was under the impression that the intention was to take the requirement to establish the criteria for a donation to the Cannabis Social Equity Trust Fund and move that back into the earlier section where it talked about fulfilling the obligation of a PIP.

- The AC asked Commissioner Stebbins a clarifying question regarding if his suggestion was the same as Director Potvin’s earlier suggestion.
- Commissioner Stebbins responded affirmatively. He expressed approval of the language suggested by the AC. However, he emphasized the significance of inviting donations once licensees have commenced operations and are generating revenue, in order to avoid placing undue financial burden on them before they start earning income.
- The AC requested that the section regarding licensees maintain the language, found on page 78, while incorporating the suggested criteria mentioned in the chat.
- Commissioner Stebbins suggested keeping this section as just for municipalities.
- The AC clarified that the language would be on page 32.
- Commissioner Stebbins stated that he would like to take some of the existing language but add “any time” after commencing operations.
- Commissioner Roy added that when they approve a licensee provisionally, and in a final license, part of their affirmative vote would be an affirmation of their PIP. She stated that her concern with commencing operations was that they are adding more administrative burden. She gave a hypothetical, and added they are closing revenue streams and hurting the fund.
 - Commissioner Stebbins added his thought that Chapter 180 stated criteria that would allow an ME to contribute to the Cannabis Social Equity Trust Fund, and the Commissioners are charged with creating criteria to accomplish that. He added that when reading renewal applications, folks always say they haven’t made that donation yet, because they haven’t opened their doors and they have no money coming in, so this would give them the option to do that.
 - EC Lopez reinforced what Commissioner Stebbins stated regarding that the provision was not stopping anyone from making a donation to the trust fund, that it was about whether or not they could do that and get credit for that towards their PIP compliance. She added it would not cut off revenue streams.
 - The AC stated that Commissioner Roy brought up a good point because technically what they would be stating is that if a licensee made a donation prior to commencing operations, then that would not count, and this would be disincentivizing them to make that donation until they commenced operations.
 - Commissioner Roy agreed that it would disincentivize donations.
 - The AC suggested the language to state “provisional licensure” instead of “commencing operations.”
 - Commissioner Camargo added that she did not want to stop the equity fund from access to donations but also wanted to make sure that they did not leave space for bribery. She mentioned she did not want to stop any money that was going into the equity fund.
 - Commissioner Stebbins stated he disagreed about discouraging investment and offered amended language.
 - The AC voiced one tweak to the language.
 - Director Potvin disagreed with the citation and made suggestions.

- The AC mentioned that his suggested change in the language would address the issue raised by Commissioner Roy.
- Commissioner Stebbins thanked Director Potvin for scouting out the citation. He added that he believed they need do some actual rewarding to make sure that the donation of the Cannabis Social Equity Trust Fund is in the appropriate place.
- The AC asked Director Potvin if he could offer amended language.
 - Director Potvin stated he would and that it would take him a couple minutes.
 - Commissioner Roy asked Director Potvin if it would be better if they broke them into two sentences making it plural criteria.
 - Director Potvin answered that he would draft new proposed language.
- The AC went back to the language around municipalities and wanted to see if there was consensus before moving forward. She read the language. She asked the Board if they had consensus on that language for Section 5, on page 78.
 - Commissioner Stebbins inquired whether it would be necessary to provide a definition to offer clarity to municipalities included in the Equity Plan. He emphasized the importance of ensuring that this plan would not be separate from what the municipalities were entitled to already.
 - The AC stated that it was a separate plan.
 - Commissioner Roy thanked the AC for the excellent language and brought attention back to the title of Section 5. She stated that they were missing the words Host Community after equity standards.
 - The AC stated she wanted to nuance the language then go back to the title. She asked where the Equity Plan was listed in their hard copy of the draft.
 - Commissioner Camargo answered page 76.
- The AC asked Commissioner Stebbins to restate his statement regarding the Equity Plan.
 - Commissioner Stebbins reread his suggested language.
 - The AC took back her comments and agreed with Commissioner Stebbins. She apologized for any confusion and read the language with his edit.
- Commissioner Stebbins suggested publishing and making the plan available in a conspicuous location.
- EC Lopez made a suggestion and read it to the Commission.
 - The AC asked EC Lopez if her recommendation was to edit the beginning of the statement to incorporate that language.
 - EC Lopez inquired if the Board was referencing (3)(b)(2) which is the language that precedes the publication.
 - The AC confirmed and asked if EC Lopez meant they should not reference an Equity Plan here because they are talking about a PIP.
 - EC Lopez acknowledged that her previous statement aligned with the current discussion. She clarified that if the Commission desired to incorporate both goals, then they possessed the authority to interpret the statute accordingly.
 - The AC suggested not to include the term Equity Plan.
 - Commissioner Camargo agreed.

- Commissioner Stebbins acknowledged the previous discussion on a new title for Subsection 5, and expressed that having that information could assist him in determining his position on the AC’s proposed language.
 - The AC stated that was the next step and asked if he was waiting for the title to see if he agreed with the language.
 - Commissioner Stebbins responded affirmatively.
- The AC redirected onto the topic of the title.
 - Commissioner Roy suggested a possible title. She added they would need to include “Host Community” in the title and add to “promote and encourage full participation”.
 - EC Lopez recommended including Host Communities and read the proposed language.
 - The AC stated she thought that was very clean. 3
 - Commissioner Roy added she thought she was in agreement but asked why they removed “full participation”.
 - The AC asked EC Lopez if she could explain her amendment.
 - EC Lopez provided clarification.
 - The AC added her own interpretation. She inquired if the Board was in alignment with the title. She noted consensus on the proposed language.
- The AC directed the Board to page 32, regarding Positive Impact Plans, as it related to licensees. She asked Director Potvin to state his proposed language.
 - Director Potvin read his proposed language and gave an explanation. He welcomed suggestions or edits.
 - The AC asked Director Potvin to point where this language would appear.
 - Director Potvin stated that it would need to be dropped in two different sections. He proposed to strike the language and replace it with his proposed language.
 - The AC asked for clarity regarding if the provision was optional or conditional.
 - Director Potvin clarified they were permissible options and not mandatory. He added that the language could satisfy a PIP.
 - Commissioner Roy thanked Director Potvin for the clarity because her concern was that the language was overly prescriptive.
 - Commissioner Stebbins voiced that he liked how EC Lopez framed the discussion. He added that he wanted people to understand that it would be only prescriptive if the business had an interest in being eligible for that leadership criteria.
 - The AC asked if Commissioner Stebbins was recommending that they insert some additional language.
 - Commissioner Stebbins stated that he was, but wanted to go through the regulations to see how to edit it first. He asked if the Board was effectuating regulatory changes now under the leadership award section by acting on his suggestion.
 - Director Potvin advised omitting the leadership rating program and adopt the - language as provided by EC Lopez.

 - Commissioner Stebbins thanked him for the explanation.
 - The AC agreed and asked for consensus. She noted consensus for page 32, 935 Code Mass. Regs. § 500.101(1)(a)11.
- Director Potvin identified the second place for the proposed language for 935 Code Mass. Regs. § 500.101(2)(g)9.d.
 - The AC read the language.
 - Director Potvin confirmed that it would be replaced by the language proposed by EC Lopez.
 - The AC asked the Commissioners if there was consensus.
 - Commissioner Camargo expressed appreciation for Director Potvin’s legal expertise.
 - The AC noted a consensus. She continued with 935 Code Mass. Regs. § 500.181(3)(c)2, of Municipal Equity regarding cap removal. She brought up the previous point made by the Massachusetts Municipal Association (MMA) and added additional language that would address the concern.

Commissioner Roy moved to take a five-minute recess.

- Commissioner Camargo seconded the motion.
- The Acting Chair took a roll call vote:
 - Commissioner Camargo – Yes
 - Commissioner Roy – Yes
 - Commissioner Stebbins – Yes
 - Acting Chair Concepcion – Yes
- The Commission approved taking a five-minute recess, by a vote of four in favor and none opposed, returning at 2:55PM (1:52:57).
- The AC asked AGC Carter to remind the Board where they left off in the discussion.
 - AGC Carter read the language regarding caps.
 - Commissioner Camargo drafted language. She spoke with staff for guidance on the language. She indicated the goal was to provide a fair and equitable process to individuals who want to become licensed.
 - Commissioner Roy emphasized the importance of the Commission being prepared for potential legal challenges. She reiterated that equity was the shared objective and that the Commission should strive to be mindful of that goal.
 - EC Lopez asked a clarifying question and suggested that businesses could submit a waiver through their general waiver process.
 - Commissioner Camargo mentioned this was a first draft that would provide relief for municipalities.
 - Commissioner Stebbins added that it would be helpful to not create another whole new process. He added that they need to have language that would be fair to smaller communities. He noted the goal was to help municipalities incorporate equity while trying not to restrain them. He stated he liked the - steps they are making here and liked EC Lopez's point due to using the existing waiver process as the outlet for the communities to seek that relief.

- AGC Carter echoed similar comments as EC Lopez. He added that it may be prudent to consider the waiver process because it contemplated undue hardship, public health, safety, welfare, and other statutory requirements. He stated the Commission already had forms and a process developed, and that staff is familiar with enforcement.
 - EC Lopez suggested language.
 - Commissioner Roy asked EC Lopez a clarifying question.
 - EC Lopez confirmed that the Commission could explore a policy where the identifying waiver is an option for this particular requirement. She added that what would also be applicable to any waiver request submitted to this requirement, would be a demonstration of the compensating actions that the Host Community is taking to compensate for seeking an exemption from the requirement altogether.
 - The AC offered an amendment to the language.
 - Commissioner Roy asked if municipalities were precluded from making donations in general and if that was the reason for the stricken language.
 - AGC Carter answered that there were challenges with municipalities making these types of appropriations.
- The AC asked AGC Carter if this was the last issue that was flagged within the section of the regulations.
 - AGC Carter suggested they have ministerial edits in a few sections: 935 Code Mass. Regs. § 500.300, § 500.301, and § 500.310.
 - Commissioner Stebbins asked for clarification on the working group's goal as it did not appear anywhere else in the municipal equity section.
 - The AC answered that this language was based off their internal research around which communities have been most harmed by cannabis prohibition and enforcement.
 - Commissioner Stebbins stated that her answer helped him understand and provided clarification in how it connected to the disproportionate impact.
 - The AC asked EC Lopez to read the proposed language.
 - EC Lopez read the new potential language to the body.
 - Commissioner Roy asked EC Lopez if she could define compensating features.
 - EC Lopez answered that it was not a defined term, as it was a part of the established criteria in connection with their waiver process, and it is meant to account for the variation in factual circumstances that necessitate someone to seek a waiver.
 - Commissioner Roy asked if it meant a monetary exchange.
 - EC Lopez answered that it is not necessarily monetary in nature, but it was a flexible standard that was proposed by the requester.
 - Commissioner Roy asked for clarity regarding if that language already existed elsewhere in their waiver process.

- EC Lopez answered that compensating features was the second criteria to the waiver review process.
 - Commissioner Stebbins believed this language satisfied Commissioner Roy's concern which she raised at the last meeting. He added it was a viable option for a community to pursue.
 - The AC noted a consensus.
- AGC Carter went on to 935 Code Mass. Regs. § 500.300, which is the Complaint Process section. He flagged feedback he received about § 500.320, where the Board should include language pertaining to Host Communities.
 - The AC noted a consensus.
- AGC Carter moved to 935 Code Mass. Regs. § 500.500, which pertains to hearings and appeals on actions of licensees.
 - Commissioner Stebbins asked if Host Communities should be considered under this section.
 - AGC Carter invited EC Lopez and Director Potvin's thoughts about the title needing to be revised.
 - Director Potvin suggested that the Board rename that section and made a suggestion.
 - The AC noted a consensus to change the heading.
- AGC Carter went on to the next section regarding suitability standards for registration as a Marijuana Establishment agent.
 - Commissioner Roy applauded the AC for her work on suitability and for helping with the goal of transitioning folks out of the legacy market into the legal market. She noted that this effort created more jobs in the industry for folks to be successful post-incarceration. She voiced her concern around removing the mandatory disqualifications for sex offenders from the law. She added it was put there for public safety and public welfare. She stated the industry has spoken very loudly on that and the Commission has even received a petition. She noted the legislature has spoken and workers, patients, and consumers do not support this. She made a motion to reinsert the sex offense felony conviction for sex offenses, strike indefinite, and reinsert mandatory disqualification.
 - The AC mentioned they need to understand what is allowed under the law and asked EC Lopez to provide clarity.
 - Commissioner Roy asked the AC about a letter she sent to the Commissioners on July 14, 2022, regarding this topic. She highlighted one section of the letter. She stated the language she supported was passed in Chapter 180.
 - The AC stated she did not write the language and that it was provided by a member of the Senate that was unanimously approved by every member of the Senate. She stated that during the July 28th public meeting she spoke on record about what her intentions were behind her advocacy efforts and support. She restated for clarity.
 - EC Lopez voiced that the Commission is bound by the plain language of the law and their jurisdiction is defined by what the legislature puts forth for them. She added their authority is to carry out and effectuate the intent of the - legislature and to interpret the statute.

- Director Potvin concurred with EC Lopez's comments.
 - Commissioner Roy asked EC Lopez to read the phrase that the Commission could cite.
 - EC Lopez explained the suitability tables. She added that the catchall provision was for circumstances that may not be foreseeable.
 - Commissioner Stebbins agreed with the AC regarding her testimony. He voiced his major concern regarding the sex offenses. He added that he did not believe the catchall is in the right place.
 - The AC noted that he raised valid concerns. She added that this language did not require sex offenders to be hired and that employers still have that discretion. She added that there are federal protections and requirements that state employers are required to assess potential employees based on their positions.
 - EC Lopez provided clarity about the look-back period and how they utilize information if there are any time constraints. She added in terms of the look-back period it is currently five years and offered a hypothetical.
 - The AC asked if they were worried about the workplace environment in terms of safety and whether the Commission was able to look beyond that time frame.
 - EC Lopez noted they could not under the current regulations and statute. She added they do not have the authority to rely on criminal history as a ground for exclusion for employment, except for the certain exceptions under the law. She noted the distinction in the law regarding owners and agents.
 - The AC asked if they had the ability to expand the look-back period within our authority here at the Commission.
 - EC Lopez confirmed that they may decide to expand the look-back period for the public health, safety, and welfare suitability standard beyond five years. She noted that requirement was not under statute.
 - The AC stated she believed this was an area and a section that they should amend.
 - Commissioner Roy asked EC Lopez whether the Board could, without looking at an applicant's criminal history, apply the standard where there might be a question whether a licensee's prior actions pose a risk to public health, safety, and welfare.
 - EC Lopez read the suitability standards.
 - Commissioner Roy reworded her question.
 - EC Lopez gave an example regarding non-criminal matters. She added that staff would assess any suitability matter that is referred to them consistent with the statute. She added they would not rely on this standard to circumvent the statute and she counseled against that policy.
 - Commissioner Roy asked whether this standard could be applied to alleged criminal risk to public health safety or welfare.

- EC Lopez counseled against relying on this standard to address concerns with criminal conviction or prior criminal case disposition because it would run afoul of the statute.
- Commissioner Camargo explained the need for more education around suitability. She asked if there will be guidance and education on the suitability charts after this regulatory process.
 - The AC stated before the Chapter 180 became law, that there was already a working group in existence, that was dedicated to creating a guidance document around suitability due to misinformation and lack of understanding about their suitability charts. She planned on working with staff to create a guidance document after the implementation of the new law.
 - Director Potvin added that there can never be enough communication about policy. He noted his interactions with the staff over the past year including updating the website and guidance documents. He agreed that there needed to be a guidance document on suitability. He added that efforts have been taken in this regard.
 - The AC noted where they really see this issue arise is through their social equity program due to participants who were admitted into the social equity program but then they could not work in the licensed establishments due to their suitability.
 - Director Potvin added that Chapter 55 of the Acts of 2017 carved out an exception for marijuana-related offenses even as they pertain to felonies and licensees.
 - The AC asked if anyone had recommendations for language.
- Commissioner Roy voiced her frustration and concern with sex offenders having access to personal identification and delivering to family's homes. She proposed to leave language regarding the ban of sex offenders from the table and gave the reason why she believed it did not conflict with statute.
 - The AC asked if there was consensus.
 - EC Lopez provided more understanding of the laws surrounding the Sex Offender Registry Board. She explained that individuals with criminal convictions are treated more favorably under their policy, than individuals who are required to register before the Sex Offender Registry Board, or who receive that determination for civil-related reasons regarding mental health.
 - Commissioner Stebbins stated he appreciated that they were trying to create regulations that comply with the law but he wanted to feel comfortable that regulations being created are operable for their team. He mentioned the importance of maintaining their responsibility of protecting the health, safety, and welfare of the folks of Massachusetts within the Cannabis industry. He asked if the Commission would have any space to decide that if folks have a level 2 or 3 determination that they would not be suitable for working in the Cannabis industry. He added his worry about the likelihood to re-offend and that person gaining access to personal information.

- EC Lopez voiced that the Commission’s authority to act is limited by the legislature. She added that the legislature sets the parameters that the Board operated in through statute. She stated the legislature has not expressed the same desire to create an exception for this group of individuals and she would not counsel the agency to adopt a policy that seeks to circumvent what the legislature has provided in the statute. She counseled against reviving the language that was stricken.
- Commissioner Roy proposed additional language.
- Commissioner Camargo noted she wanted to make sure the language that Commissioner Roy proposed was good from a legal perspective.
- EC Lopez stated that reviving a suitability standard to disqualify an individual on the basis of their registration as a sex offender would violate the law. She again counseled against enacting that policy.
- AGC Carter agreed with EC Lopez.
- Commissioner Roy rephrased her comments.
- Commissioner Camargo asked if Commissioner Roy had any other amendments or recommendations for this section.
- Commissioner Roy stated that she did not.
- Director Potvin gave clarification that criminal dispositions could conclude with guilty, not guilty, dismissed, or continued without a finding, but the disposition, more likely than not, came with conditions including to register as a sex offender. He concurred with AGC Carter and EC Lopez that they need to operate within the law as prescribed by the legislature.
- Commissioner Roy asked if the body had to agree with counsel as they do have the authority to decide on their own despite the advice of counsel.
 - AGC Carter stated they are ultimately the policy makers but that this policy matter may invite litigation.
 - Commissioner Roy mentioned inserting certain language.
 - Commissioner Stebbins asked EC Lopez about the suitability questionnaire she made and if it had a question about whether an individual had been jailed for a sex offense or failure to register on a sex offender’s list.
 - EC Lopez stated that the tool was created under the prior suitability standards and she believed it asked about sex offenses.
 - Commissioner Stebbins asked if there is anything that prohibited the Board from advocacy, or whether they may offer any technical assistance to our licensees around their rights and their concerns over this change.
 - AGC Carter stated that licensees have a duty to customers and patients that visit their businesses which include taking appropriate steps to protect them from harm.
 - The AC asked EC Lopez a clarifying question relative to Commissioner Stebbins’ question.

- EC Lopez stated there was nothing preventing the Commission from providing guidance. She then counseled against the agency explicitly promoting a preference for kinds of individuals that businesses should or should not hire.
- Commissioner Roy motioned proposed language and then read it aloud.
- The AC asked if there was a second.
- Commissioner Stebbins asked to review the language.

Commissioner Roy moved to take a five-minute recess.

- Commissioner Stebbins seconded the motion.
- The Acting Chair took a roll call vote:
 - Commissioner Camargo – Yes
 - Commissioner Roy – Yes
 - Commissioner Stebbins – Yes
 - Acting Chair Concepcion - Yes
- The Commission approved taking a five-minute recess, by a vote of four in favor and none opposed, returning at 4:40PM (3:37:34).

- Commissioner Roy stated read her proposed language.
 - Commissioner Stebbins asked if the motion was to be included in Table B.
 - Commissioner Roy confirmed.
- Commissioner Stebbins seconded the motion.
- The Acting Chair took a roll call vote:
 - Commissioner Stebbins – No
 - Commissioner Roy – Yes
 - Commissioner Camargo – No
 - Acting Chair Concepcion – No
- The Commission denied the motion, by a vote of three opposed and one in favor. (03:40:41).

- The AC stated she voted no because of the reasons outlined by the three attorneys.
- AGC Carter welcomed edits in other sections of the suitability tables.
 - The AC asked if there were any additional edits from the remaining agent suitability section of their draft regulations.
 - Commissioner Stebbins asked if they resolved the discussion relative to the catchall policy of five years or whether to expand it to ten years.
 - The AC stated within this area of their regulations they have the authority and ability to expand that time frame.
 - EC Lopez added that the look-back period is a matter of policy that was determined by the inaugural Commissioners and that the Board does have the authority to modify.

- Commissioner Stebbins moved that the Commission approve a change of the time in tables B, C, & D under the last suitability standard and amend the language to be the preceding ten years.
- The AC seconded the motion.
 - Commissioner Roy added a friendly amendment. She moved to strike ten years to indefinite.
 - Commissioner Stebbins stated he was comfortable with the amendment but asked for counsels' opinions.
 - EC Lopez stated that it was a policy decision and she deferred to the judgement of the policy makers. She asked for clarification from Commissioner Stebbins.
 - Commissioner Stebbins clarified he wanted it extended the provision to lab agents.
 - AGC Carter flagged for everyone that table A and E were not changed during the regulatory review period so the current look-back period for period A and E was for 5 years.
 - The AC asked if they were to amend table A and E, would that do anything in terms of the scope of their regulatory drafting and creation ability.
 - AGC Carter suggested that since A and E were not put out for public comment that they might want to contemplate revising at a future date.
 - The AC asked AGC Carter to tell them what A and E applied to for the record.
 - AGC Carter explained the tables.
 - The AC added that Tables A and E were not amended or changed under Chapter 180 and there were still limitations in terms of individuals seeking licensure with criminal records.
 - AGC Carter confirmed.
 - EC Lopez confirmed that, for Tables A and E, those standards remained unchanged following the amendment of the statute and counseled against embracing two separate standards for the groups.
 - The AC asked if that would be a sufficient reason to have different standards.
 - EC Lopez explained that it sounded like the desire from the Commissioners were to have all the agents and owners subject to the same standard. She added they were all subject to the same look-back standard before. She added her understanding that the two groups might be out of scope of this regulatory review.
 - The AC added that she was in support of Commissioner Stebbins' motion due to the differentiation between Tables A & E as in comparison to B, C, and D. She added there were different standards due to the changes in the law.
 - Commissioner Camargo noted she was in support of Commissioner Stebbins' motion with the ten-year look back.
 - Commissioner Stebbins noted he accepted the friendly amendment to make the look-back indefinite for B, C, and D.
 - Commissioner Camargo stated she wanted to hear what indefinite would mean

- for public education.
 - AGC Carter noted presumably that the look-back period would not occur in these instances.
 - Director Potvin concurred with AGC Carter.
 - Commissioner Stebbins noted that an indefinite look-back does not necessarily mean something that might be found, or a record that might be discovered, would be automatically trigger a determination of unsuitability.
 - Director Potvin asked Commissioner Stebbins what table he was referencing.
 - Commissioner Stebbins restated his suggestion.
 - Director Potvin stated that if the Commissioners were to adopt a policy position, where it stated that the lookback was indefinite, that policy decision would exist for the life of registration.
 - EC Lopez added that her team has studied the look-back periods many times and they have formulated a standard of reviewing them. She gave some clarification regarding the term indefinite.
 - Commissioner Stebbins noted they do not want anybody to be untruthful in the information that they give the Commission during the application.
 - EC Lopez added that Commissioner Stebbins was correct that agents and owners do have a responsibility to remain suitable at all times.
 - The AC asked Commissioner Stebbins if he would still like to make the motion and if he could read it with the amendment.
- Commissioner Stebbins moved that the Commission replace the period with the preceding five years and incorporate indefinite into that time period for suitability tables B, C, and D.
 - The AC seconded the motion.
 - The Acting Chair took a roll call vote:
 - Commissioner Camargo – No
 - Commissioner Roy – Yes
 - Commissioner Stebbins – Yes
 - Acting Chair Concepcion – Yes.
 - The Commission approved the motion, by a vote of three in favor one opposed. (04:03:37).
- EC Lopez mentioned that different provisions of the regulations will need to be amended now that the motion was carried. She offered a proposed amendment to the language.
 - The AC noted a consensus on the edit EC Lopez provided.
 - Commissioner Roy asked if they could vote on each section individually and then vote on the document as a whole.
 - Manager Erickson asked EC Lopez to restate her recommendation.
 - EC Lopez reread the provision.
 - The AC answered Commissioner Roy and asked if she had any additional amendments or proposed language for that section.

- Commissioner Roy stated she did not.
- AGC explained that he could review the filing process if the Board desired.
 - The AC thanked everyone for their work on the regulations. She stated they will go through the entire document first to ensure that all amendments and edits were aligned. She noted that the Commissioners would then vote on the entire package.
- AGC Carter gave an update regarding the next steps in the regulatory process.
- Commissioner Stebbins moved to approve 935 Code Mass. Regs. § 500.000, made as a result of Commission deliberations, and for the regulations to be finalized and filed with the Secretary of State’s regulations and publications division.
- Commissioner Camargo seconded the motion.
- The Acting Chair took a roll call vote:
 - Commissioner Camargo – Yes
 - Commissioner Roy – No
 - Commissioner Stebbins – Yes
 - Acting Chair Concepcion – Yes
- The Commission approved the motion, by a vote of three in favor one opposed. (04:17:15).
- Commissioner Camargo moved to make corresponding edits from 935 Code Mass. Regs. § 500.000 and 935 Code Mass. Regs. § 501.000 and approve 935 Code Mass. Regs. § 501.000 as final regulations and changes, made as a result of Commission deliberations; and for the regulations to be finalized and filed with the Secretary of State’s regulations and publication division.
- Commissioner Stebbins seconded the motion.
- The Acting Chair took a roll call vote:
 - Commissioner Stebbins – Yes
 - Commissioner Roy – No
 - Commissioner Camargo – Yes
 - Acting Chair Concepcion - Yes
- The Commission approved the motion, by a vote of three in favor one opposed. (4:18:15).
- Commissioner Stebbins made a motion to authorize Commission staff to finalize the final regulations 935 Code Mass. Regs. § 500 & § 501, and to make any edits consistent with Commission deliberations and votes, the Commission’s governing laws, and the regulation division’s requirements; and to take any additional steps necessary to file the final regulations with the Secretary of State’s regulations and publications division.
- Commissioner Camargo seconded the motion.
- The Acting Chair took a roll call vote:
 - Commissioner Camargo – Yes
 - Commissioner Roy – Yes

- Commissioner Stebbins – Yes
- Acting Chair Concepcion – Yes
- The Commission approved the motion, by a vote of four in favor and none opposed. (04:19:45).

Public Health Framework

Public Health Framework for Legalization

State of Science

What is the impact of cannabis policies on youth use?

- Mixed findings whether decriminalization is associated with increased use – one study found decriminalization in CA was associated with more 12th grade cannabis use;¹ another review found most studies (4:5) did not show impact;²
- Research does not suggest medical cannabis legalization impacted youth use;^{3–10}
- Research is still developing about adult-use:
 - Early studies do not find evidence of impact on youth use;^{4,11–15} and
 - Lagged effect, certain cohorts may be uniquely affected.^{16,17}

Literature review – Methods of Use

- Cannabis flower most common cannabis product used by youth;¹⁻⁷
- Smoking is primary use method;¹⁻⁷
- Research gaps around edible use  may be perceived as healthier alternative;^{1,4,8,9} and
- Research gaps around vaping cannabis.^{4,10-12}

Literature review – Patterns of Use

Co-use and polysubstance use associated with worse outcomes;^{30–32}

Alcohol and cannabis:

- “Alcohol-only” use highest among youth, followed by alcohol & cannabis use; “cannabis-only” use is much lower;³⁰
- Risk factors for cannabis and alcohol use include male, truancy, more evenings out; other substance use, mixed findings around race/ethnicity;^{30,33}
- Complementary and substitution effects found;^{33–36}

Tobacco and cannabis:

- Tobacco and cannabis use is more common than “tobacco-only” or “cannabis-only” use among youth, less common than alcohol and cannabis use;³⁰ and

Other-substances and cannabis:

- Gaps in literature.^{37,38}

Literature review – Sources of Cannabis

- Most youth receive cannabis for free,³⁹ “purchasers” may be at greater risk for negative outcomes;^{39,40}
- Most receive cannabis from a friend, youth who obtain cannabis elsewhere may be at greater risk for negative outcomes;^{39–41}
- Few youth report using another’s medical cannabis in legal states but those that do are at greater risk for other risky behaviors;^{42,43} and
- Little research assessing any changes following adult use legalization:
 - One self-report study of Washington state 10th graders found of those who use cannabis, 18% reported giving someone money to purchase for them, 11% obtained cannabis from their home with or without parent permission, and 6% reported buying cannabis at a retail store.⁴¹

Literature review – Perception of Cannabis’ Harms

- A lower perception of cannabis’s harm is associated with increased cannabis use; ^{45,54–57}
- Nationally, youth perception of cannabis’s harms has been decreasing: ^{6,44–47}
 - Most, but not all, ⁴⁸ studies did not find medical cannabis laws were associated with decreased risk; ^{6,47,49,50}
 - Adult-use research is developing; early studies have mixed findings; ^{11,12,14,51–53}
- Despite decreased risk perceptions, youth cannabis use has not increased at the level that would be expected: ⁵⁶
 - Decreased cigarette use may explain. ^{45,56}

Research Gaps: Overview

1. Impact of adult use legalization (Note: Lagged, Cohort-specific, Contextual):
 - a) Use rates, patterns, perceptions, problem use, and beyond;
 - b) Policy heterogeneity considered;
2. Individual-level data to better understand risk and protective factors:
 - a) Cohort-specific; and
3. Best practices for youth prevention and intervention, and assessment of current school-based practices.

Policy Considerations:

Prevention

Consideration 1: Cannabis prevention efforts should not occur in a silo. Cannabis prevention efforts should be broadly integrated into other evidence-based prevention mechanisms.

Consideration 2: Commonwealth could continue the Public Awareness Campaign with continued focus on youth prevention and harm mitigation.

All education materials must be inclusive, multi-lingual, and reach all affected communities.

Policy Considerations:

Data Collection and Monitoring

Consideration 1: Commonwealth could work with health care system, school health system, and researchers to monitor rates of cannabis use behaviors, cannabis use disorders, and any acute-use clinical presentations.

Consideration 2: Commission collaboration with the Massachusetts Department of Elementary and Secondary Education (DESE) to assess youth receiving disciplinary action for cannabis-related incidents at school.

Consideration 3: Commonwealth to add measures to systematic data collection mechanisms to assess exposure, use, frequency, quantity of cannabis use and perceptions of harm among youth, pregnant and breastfeeding women.

- (b) Before making an adverse suitability recommendation, staff shall consult with the Executive Director or the Executive Director's delegee(s). (5) The Committee shall:

- (a) consider and review whether offense(s) or information resulting in a Mandatory Disqualification or a Presumptive Negative Suitability Determination under Tables A-E, in 935 CMR 501.801: Suitability Standard for Licensure through 500.803: Suitability Standard for Registration as a Laboratory Agent, as applied to the subject, renders the subject unsuitable for licensure or registration;

- (c) subsequent to its review of a suitability matter, make recommendations to the Executive Director, or the Commission, or their delegee(s).

(6) When reviewing an adverse suitability recommendation by staff that there is an offense resulting in a Mandatory Disqualification, the Commission shall consider credible and reliable information demonstrating that:

- (a) the disqualifying event was based on erroneous information or evidence; and
- (b) the subject can demonstrate that prior to the informal proceeding, the adverse suitability recommendation can no longer be supported because the error was corrected.

- (d) any other relevant information, including information submitted by the subject to the Committee or requested by the Commission.

 2. the risk posed by the applicant's or Licensee's actions relates or would likely relate to the operation of a Marijuana Establishment.
 - (b) On review of this recommendation, the Committee shall consider whether the staff has carried its burden of demonstrating:

 2. The risk posed by the applicant's or Licensee's actions relates or would likely relate to the operation of a Marijuana Establishment.
- (9) Where an MTC agent listed on the application for licensure in accordance with 935 CMR 501.101(1), is found to have no suitability issue under Table A, or to have overcome any suitability issue, the agent shall not be subject to a subsequent suitability review under Tables B-E.

 - (b) Any subsequent disclosure of background check information for a Marijuana establishment agent required to be listed and evaluated pursuant to 935 CMR 501.101(1), will be assessed pursuant to Table A or on other grounds for a Negative Suitability Determination only.
 - (c) Nothing in subsection precludes the Commission from initiating a suitability review based on background information received after the Commission's initial suitability review.
- (10) The Executive Director in consultation with the Committee may determine that a subject's suitability warrants the Commission's consideration. The Executive Director may also remand a matter to staff for further investigation prior to making a determination. The Commission may consider the determination when acting on the application or renewal.

935 CMR 501.000: St. 2017, c. 55; M.G.L. c. 94I, and M.G.L. c. 94G.

Expedition Policy

The definition of “expedition” is, in pertinent part “a journey or voyage undertaken by a group of people with a particular purpose...” It also means “promptness or speed in doing something.”

~~To ensure that applications are being reviewed promptly and equitably, the Commission licensing team should launch an audit of the applicants designated as “RMD Priority” in our system to ensure that it is limited only to those that registered as such between April 1 and April 15, 2018 as required under Section 56(b) of Chapter 55 of the Acts of 2017.~~

The Commission licensing team should continue to prioritize, consistent with the mandate of the statute, those entities properly designated as RMD Priority and Economic Empower applicants.

Within the remaining pool of applicants, I request that the Commission vote to adopt a policy of expediting review of applications for groups that the Legislature has directed us to promote, namely farmers, small businesses and communities impacted by the War on Drugs. To be more precise, I request that the Commission licensing team expedite review of pending applications for:

- Social Equity Program participants
- Outdoor Cultivators
- Craft Cooperatives
- Microbusinesses

I would further suggest that, consistent with a vote taken by the Commission in 2018, in the interests of public health and safety, review of applications for Independent Testing Laboratories are also expedited.

I further propose that the policy sunset on December 31, 2020 and during its effectiveness, the Commission team collect data in its impact to the licensing process and present a recommendation to the Commission in December, 2020 as to whether the expedition policy should be extended.

Commented [DK(1)]: This section can come out if we do the audit before the meeting and determine that is the case.
Update: I’ve been assured that we’re confident it’s only the people certified in April that are being identified as RMD Priority, so this step is not necessary.

I. Executive Summary

Non-medical cannabis use remains illegal for youth younger than 21 years old across the United States (U.S.), yet cannabis is the second most commonly used substance among this cohort. In 2017, 38% of Massachusetts high schoolers and 6% of middle schoolers reported having ever (“lifetime”) used cannabis, while 24% of high schoolers and 2% of middle schoolers reported past 30-day (“current”) cannabis use.¹ Meanwhile, youth perceptions about the risks from cannabis use are decreasing nationally.²⁻⁶ Cannabis use patterns, perceptions, and related behaviors are critical to track for prevention and harm reduction as the adult-use cannabis market emerges.

The Massachusetts Cannabis Control Commission (CNB) conducted a scoping review of the issue and baseline data is herein presented. This report aims to assess youth cannabis use patterns and perceptions in the Commonwealth and nationally prior to adult-use cannabis implementation (“baseline”). To achieve this aim, we first present Massachusetts Youth Risk Behavior Survey (YRBS) data from 2007-2017. An overview of preliminary literature around the effects of varying cannabis legalization on youth cannabis use follows. Next, we present literature reviews on youth patterns of use, methods of consumption, sources of purchase, and general perceptions (i.e. risk of harm, ease of access, parent disapproval, peer disapproval, and personal disapproval of peer use). We further highlight a public health framework for cannabis legalization as it pertains to youth. Lastly, the report ends with a discussion of research and policy considerations.

Time and resource restraints did not permit an assessment of Massachusetts data around incidents of cannabis-related school suspensions and expulsions for this report, nor did it permit a cohort-specific assessment of at-risk youth (e.g. those in treatment or screen positive for substance use disorder). Future data sources are outlined, and procurements are in progress.

Main Findings

Massachusetts Youth Risk Behavior Survey

- In 2017, 38% of Massachusetts high schoolers reported having ever tried cannabis ("lifetime") use;
- Youth cannabis use rates decreased from 2011 to 2017, but have not decreased as quickly as alcohol use rates;
- Cannabis use is more common among 11th and 12th graders;
- Males and females are similarly likely to report lifetime and past-month ("current") cannabis use. Males are more likely to report heavy cannabis use;
- Cannabis use rates are similar among Black, Hispanic, and White cohorts, and are markedly lower among Asian cohorts;
- Achieving higher grades in school, having adult support, and being heterosexual were associated with lowered odds of cannabis use ("protective factors"); and
- Multiple factors may be "risk factors" for cannabis use. These behaviors/experiences fall under: (1) Disability; (2) Risky driving behaviors; (3) Weapon carrying/exposure, violence and bullying; (4) Hopelessness and suicidality behaviors; and (5) Sexual orientation and sexual behaviors.

National Trends in Youth Perceptions

- Researchers predict it will take at least a generation to see full effects of cannabis legalization on cannabis use patterns, thus, effects on youth use will likely be lagged;
- Changes to youths' perceptions of cannabis are critical to monitor;
- Nationally, youth perceptions of cannabis' harms are decreasing;
- Most older adolescents report that cannabis is easy to access, with the majority reporting accessing cannabis through friends;
- Most youth believe their parent strongly disapprove of youth cannabis use, but this trend has decreased over time; and
- Youth disapproval of their peers use of cannabis has decreased.

II. Brief History of Cannabis Policies

Cannabis has been used for religious, recreational, and therapeutic purposes for thousands of years, it is no surprise that cannabis is currently the most frequently cultivated, trafficked, and abused illicit substance (“drug”) worldwide.^{18–22} In the United States (U.S.), cannabis cultivation and use were legal under federal and state policies for most of American history. An increase in cannabis use from 1910–1920, coupled with political hysteria, led twenty-nine states including Massachusetts to pass policies prohibiting the possession or sale of cannabis.^{19,23,24}

In 1970, the Federal Controlled Substance Act (CSA) replaced the Marihuana Tax Act of 1937 and placed cannabis (“marijuana”) as a Schedule 1 drug, the most restrictive ranking. Despite increasing stringency of federal cannabis policies over time, the recreational use of cannabis increased. In 1971, President Richard Nixon declared a war on drugs aiming to combat substance abuse on the supply and demand sides. However, a disproportionate number of War on Drug policies focused on criminal justice enforcement and punishment for drug offenses—creating systematic changes in the criminal justice system.

Currently in the CSA and under the U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA) jurisdiction, cannabis remains classified as a Schedule 1 drug, contending that it has: (1) a high potential for abuse, (2) no current accepted medical use in the U.S., and (3) a lack of accepted safety for use under medical supervision.^{25,26}

Moving Toward Legalization

Movement toward cannabis legalization has occurred on a state-by-state basis. The first wave of cannabis legalization was decriminalization, which replaced criminal sanctions for possession and small-scale distribution of cannabis with civil fines.²⁷ Since 1972, 26 states and the District of Columbia (D.C.) have enacted policies decriminalizing small amounts of cannabis.

Medicinal marijuana policies followed, allowing access and use of cannabis for certain medical purposes. Since 1996, 33 states, D.C., Guam, and Puerto Rico have enacted varying policies permitting comprehensive medicinal cannabis programs.

Adult-use legalization policies allow cannabis use by adults in certain settings and may allow retail stores. Since 2012, eleven states and D.C. have enacted varying policies permitting small amounts of cannabis for non-medical adult-use for those 21 years-old or older (“21₊”).²⁸

Massachusetts

Massachusetts has enacted and implemented all three types of cannabis legalization in disparate waves. All waves of Massachusetts cannabis legalization were enacted via ballot initiatives: cannabis decriminalization in 2008 with Question 2, “The Sensible Marijuana Policy Initiative,” medical cannabis in 2012 with Question 3, “An Initiative Petition for a Law for the Humanitarian Medical Use of Marijuana,” and non-medical adult-use cannabis legalization in 2016 with Question 4, “Massachusetts Legalization, Regulation and Taxation of Marijuana Initiative.”

III. Data Sources and Limitations

Chapter 55 of the Acts of 2017 section 17(a)(vii) states the Cannabis Control Commission research agenda shall include “patterns of use, methods of consumption, sources of purchase and general perceptions of marijuana among minors, among college and university students and among adults;” and “a compilation of data on the number of incidents of discipline in schools, including suspensions or expulsions, resulting from marijuana use or possession of marijuana or marijuana products.”

Use Patterns

Youth patterns of use were assessed through data analysis of the Massachusetts Youth Risk Behavior Survey (YRBS) survey. The YRBS samples randomly selected classrooms within randomly selected public schools in the Commonwealth every other year. As with any data source, YRBS is subject to limitations. YRBS data is self-reported and not validated by external measurements.²⁹ Therefore, students may inaccurately report, and/or give socially desirable answers. Only those who attend school and are present on the day of survey administration are included in the sample. This is a limitation as youth who are frequently absent or do not attend school may be more likely to engage in risky behaviors (e.g. cannabis use).²⁹ To complement analyses, a literature review was also conducted.

Consumption Methods, Sources, and Perceptions

A series of literature reviews were conducted around youth methods of consumption, sources of purchase, and perceptions. These included: (1) perceived risk of harm from cannabis use, (2) perceived access to cannabis, (3) perceived parent disapproval of cannabis use for youth, (4) perceived peer disapproval, and (5) youth personal disapproval of cannabis use. All reviews attempt to assess time trends, the impact of medical cannabis legalization, and the impact of adult-use legalization on perceptions.

School Discipline

Due to resource constraints, incidents of suspensions and expulsions for cannabis-related offenses could not be assessed in time for this report. Future reports will include analysis concerning the frequency of cannabis-related discipline, over time and by demographic subgroup.

The Department of Elementary and Secondary Education (DESE) collects data on school discipline, including suspensions and expulsions for all students in public education. Two cannabis-specific variables are captured in the reason for discipline: “marijuana possession” and “marijuana use.” Deidentified student data, including race, ethnicity, gender, special education status, economic disadvantage, limited English proficiency, and high needs status, along with reason for discipline and length of discipline are available publicly at <http://www.doe.mass.edu/infoservices/research/> and will be assessed in future reports.

Substance-Use Screening

Chapter 52 of the Acts of 2016, An Act Relative to Substance Use, Treatment, Education and Prevention (known as the STEP Act), requires all public schools in the Commonwealth to implement a verbal screening tool (e.g. Screening, Brief Intervention, and Referral to Treatment [SBIRT]) to screen students for substance use disorders, including those related to cannabis.¹ Implementation was required by the 2017-18 school year and de-identified screening results must be submitted to the Department of Public Health annually. Due to time and resource restraints, substance use screening data for youth could not be obtained for purposes of this report. However, in future reports assessing youth and cannabis, attempts will be made to include screening data results for all available years stratified by age/grade, and by any cannabis use. Feasibility of obtaining historical data from the SBIRT program’s use of the screening tool around school nurse trainings and school-specific implementation, and in inpatient and outpatient provider settings will also be investigated.

IV. Important Considerations

1) Policy impacts on youth will likely be lagged

The impact of adult-use cannabis legalization on youth use will likely be delayed and may be lagged. Evidence from the alcohol literature suggests effects could be delayed ten-years or longer.⁷ Although comparisons are imperfect, researchers note delayed effects for alcohol levels to reach pre-prohibition levels after prohibition ended and the lag between pre-rolled cigarette manufacturing and their subsequent health impact.⁸⁻¹⁰ Caulkins et al. 2016 predict it will take at least a generation to see full effects of cannabis legalization on use patterns.¹⁰

Researchers have also identified a number of factors that could change over time and may delay effects. These include, implementation delays,¹¹ policy change/evolution,¹² price changes,^{8,12} potency changes/limits,⁸ changes to types of products,⁸ and social norm changes.^{8,11}

In light of projected lagged effects, research suggests there are several indicators to monitor which may precede increased youth use. Researchers have emphasized monitoring changes in perceived risks and social acceptability of cannabis, [See Section VII. Literature Reviews], frequency of use by current users, use by those in the juvenile justice system, those in treatment for mental health¹³ or substance use disorder conditions, and changes to rates of cannabis use disorders.¹⁴

2) All youth may not be affected equally

Policy changes may not affect all youth the same way. Research should assess diversity among youth to understand how policy may impact cohorts differentially (e.g. age, gender, race/ethnicity, sexual minority status, disability status, and more).

The Youth Risk Behavior Surveillance Survey used in this report to assess varying cannabis use trends in Massachusetts has limitations. The YRBS does not capture all youth in the state and may systemically exclude youth cohorts most at-risk, such as those who are chronically absent, dropped out of school, or are incarcerated.¹⁵ Therefore, the data presented likely excludes youth at higher-risk than the general youth population. Data is also self-reported and inaccuracies could not be assessed. However, it is likely that these sources of bias remain constant over time permitting a more accurate comparison of trends across time rather than prevalence estimates.

Due to resource and time restraints, a full analysis of all potentially relevant variables could not be conducted. Additionally, data from youth who are seeking treatment for substance use disorders could not be obtained. In future reports, we will aim to access and include this data.

3) Youth cannabis use should be assessed in context of environment

Youth development occurs within multiple environmental systems, and adolescent behavior is shaped by these environments (e.g. family, neighborhood, community, culture, society).¹⁶ Additionally, environmental contexts may affect youth differently based on individual characteristics. Youth are exposed to a range of views of cannabis at multiple environmental levels, including messages that aim to normalize cannabis use among adults, and conversely, messaging that portrays cannabis to be as harmful as substances such as heroin.¹⁷ The effects of these messages are not fully understood.

Leveraging data that permits the assessment of social and environmental contexts surrounding youth may help explain cannabis use and related trends. Future reports will aim to access and include better contextual and social norm data. Consideration of specific policy environments (“policy heterogeneity”) where youth live is also critical to understanding any impacts of policy changes.¹²

V. Baseline Data

Youth Risk Behavior Surveillance Survey

Overview

This study used the Massachusetts Youth Risk Behavior Surveillance Survey (YRBS) data. The YRBS data was procured by the Cannabis Control Commission’s Research Department for purposes of this report.

The complete YRBS study sample consists of eight cohorts, each representing the year respondents in that cohort were surveyed as high school students, grades 9-12 in Massachusetts, years 2007-2017 [N=17,691].

YRBS data is based on a two-stage cluster sample design to ascertain a representative sample of high school students in the state jurisdiction. The sampling frame includes all 9-12th grade students attending high school. The primary sampling units (PSUs) are all public schools within Massachusetts. In the first stage, a random sample of public high schools are selected for participation in the survey. Most schools are selected with probability proportional to enrollment size. In the second stage, a random sample of a required course or period classrooms are selected within each selected school. All students in selected classrooms are invited to participate in the survey. All years of data are weighted, meaning Massachusetts had a scientifically selected sample, appropriate documentation, and a 60 percent response rate in each year of data collection.

In the findings below, reference charts of student alcohol and tobacco use are provided whenever possible for context.

All Grades (9-12th) Cannabis Use

Ever Use (“Lifetime”)

In 2017, 38.1% of Massachusetts high schoolers report lifetime cannabis use. In comparison, 56.4% of high schoolers report lifetime alcohol use. The percentage of high schoolers reporting lifetime cannabis use increased from 2007 to 2011, followed by a downward trend from 2011 to 2017. The percent of youth reporting lifetime alcohol use has trended downward from 2007—decreasing at a greater rate in comparison to lifetime cannabis use. [See Chart V.A.1, Chart V.A.2 below]

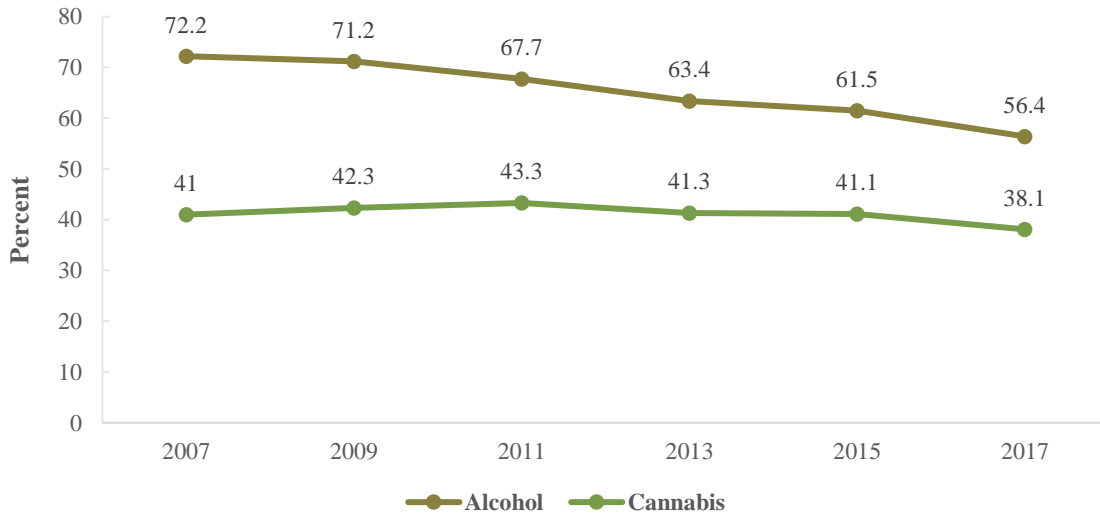

Chart V.A.2. MA High Schoolers Lifetime Cannabis and Alcohol Lifetime Use, YRBS 2007-2017

Current Use (Past 30-Day)

In 2017, 24.2% of Massachusetts high schoolers report past 30-day (“current”) cannabis use. The percent of current cannabis users increased from 2007 to 2011, before decreasing from 2011 to 2017. In comparison, 31.5% of high schoolers report current alcohol use and 6.1% report current tobacco use (not including vaping). Both past 30-day alcohol and tobacco use rates have decreased since 2007 at greater rates than cannabis use rates. [See Chart V.A.3, Chart V.A.4 below]

Heavy Use (Past 30-Day)

In 2017, 5.6% of Massachusetts high schoolers report that they had used cannabis 20 or more times (“heavy use”) in the past 30-days. In comparison, 15.9% of high schoolers report heavy alcohol use (“binge drinking”) in the past 30-days. Between 2007 and 2011, heavy cannabis use trended upward, followed by a downward trend from 2011 to 2017. Binge drinking in the past 30-days has consistently declined. Cannabis Use by Grade

Ever Use (“Lifetime”)

Fewer students in grades 9 and 10 report lifetime cannabis compared to students in 11 and 12. This trend is consistent across time and is similarly seen in youth who report lifetime alcohol use. The percent of Massachusetts ninth and eleventh graders who report lifetime cannabis use has trended downward from 2011-2017; other grades did not show clear trends. Lifetime alcohol use trended downward from 2007 to 2017 for all grades. [See Chart V.B.1, Chart V.B.2 below]

Current Use (Past 30-Day)

A smaller percentage of students in grades 9 and 10 report current cannabis use compared to students in grades 11 and 12. This trend is consistent across time and is similarly seen in current alcohol use rates. The percentage of Massachusetts ninth graders reporting current cannabis use decreased from 2011-2017; other grades do not show clear trends. Current alcohol and tobacco use (excluding vaping) trended downward from 2009 to 2017 for all grades. [See Chart V.B.3, Chart V.B.4, Chart V.B.5 below]

Heavy Use (Past 30-Day)

Similar to lifetime and current use, fewer students in grades 9 and 10 report heavy cannabis use compared to students in grades 11 and 12. The percentage of Massachusetts ninth and tenth graders who report heavy cannabis use decreased from 2013-2017; other grades do not show clear trends. Binge drinking trended downward from 2007 to 2017 for all grades. [See Chart V.B.6, Chart V.B.7 below]

Cannabis Use by Gender

Ever Use (“Lifetime”)

More males (44.1%) compared to females (39.4%) report lifetime cannabis between 2007 and 2017; However, this gap is decreasing. From 2011 to 2017, lifetime cannabis use among males trended downward, while lifetime cannabis use among females trended upward. In 2017, the gender gap in lifetime cannabis closed, with females (38.4%) reporting slightly higher lifetime use compared to males (37.5%). [See Chart V.C.1, Chart V.C.2 below]

For alcohol, females report higher lifetime use rates between 2007 and 2017. Both male and female lifetime alcohol use decreased from 2007 to 2017, with rates decreasing faster in males than females from 2013 to 2017. [See Chart V.C.3, Chart V.C.4 below]

Chart V.C.4. MA High Schoolers Lifetime Cannabis and Alcohol by Gender Over Time, YRBS 2007-2017

Current Use (Past 30-Day)

More males (28.5%) than females (22.6%) report past 30-day (“current”) cannabis use between 2007 and 2017; However, this gap is decreasing. From 2011 to 2017, current cannabis use among males decreased, while current cannabis use among females increased from 2013-2017. In 2017, males (24.9%) had a slightly higher current use rate than females (23.2%). [See Chart V.C.5, Chart V.C.6]

For alcohol, a slightly higher percentage of females report current use compared to males. More males than females were current tobacco (excluding vaping) users. Both male and female current alcohol use and non-vaped tobacco use trended downward between 2011 and 2017. [See Chart V.C.7, Chart V.C.8 below]

Cannabis Use by Race/Ethnicity

Only results for White, Black, Hispanic, and Asian students are included in this section, as sample sizes for American Indian/Alaskan Natives and Native Hawaiian/Pacific Islanders were low. [See Appendix Table II.3. MA High Schoolers Cannabis Use by Demographics, YRBS 2007-2017 for full tables including these two groups]

Ever Use (“Lifetime”)

Hispanics (43.2%), followed by Whites (41.9%) and Blacks (40.4%), report the largest percentages of having ever tried cannabis (“lifetime use”) between 2007-2017. Asians (20.1%) report less lifetime cannabis use between 2007-2017. All racial/ethnic groups report less lifetime use between 2015 and 2017, However, Whites had the smallest decline. In 2017, 41.6% of Hispanics, 39.5% of Whites, 33.1% of Blacks, and 16.1% of Asians report lifetime cannabis use. [See Chart V.D.1, Chart V.D.2 below]

For alcohol, Hispanics and Whites report the highest percentage of lifetime use, followed by Blacks and Asians between 2007-2017. All racial/ethnic groups report less lifetime alcohol use between 2015 and 2017, with Whites having the smallest decline. [See Chart V.D.3, Chart V.D.4 below]

Current Use (Past 30-Day)

Whites (26.5%), followed by Hispanics (24.9%) and Blacks (24.3%), report the largest percentages of past 30-day cannabis use (“current use”) between 2007-2017. Asians (10.7%) report less current cannabis use between 2007-2017. Between 2015 and 2017, current cannabis use rates remained relatively stable for Blacks, Hispanics, and Whites. Asian rates decreased between 2015 and 2017. In 2017, 26.7% of Hispanics, 25.5% of Whites, 21.6% of Blacks, and 9% of Asians report current cannabis use. [See Chart V.D.5, Chart V.D.6 below]

For alcohol, Whites, followed by Hispanics, report the highest percentage of current use between 2007-2017. All racial/ethnic groups report slight decreases in current alcohol use between 2015 and 2017, except for Asians, who had an increase in current use between 2015 and 2017. [See Chart V.D.7, Chart V.D.8 below]

For tobacco, Whites, followed by Hispanics, report the highest percentage of current use between 2007-2017. All racial/ethnic groups report decreases in current tobacco (excluding vaping) use between 2015 and 2017, except for Asians who had an increase in current use between 2015 and 2017. Heavy Use (Past 30-Day)

Blacks (8.1%), followed by Whites (7.4%) and Hispanics (7%), report the largest percentages of twenty or more times of cannabis use (“heavy use”) in the past 30-days between 2007-2017. Asians (3%) report less heavy cannabis use between 2007-2017. However, an increase in heavy use among Blacks in 2011, which returned to levels consistent with other groups in the following time point, may overstate cohort differences. Between 2015 and 2017, heavy cannabis use rates remained relatively stable for Black and White cohorts and decreased for Asian and Hispanic cohorts. In 2017, 6.2% Hispanics, 6.1% Blacks, 5.8% whites followed by 1.4% of Asians report heavy cannabis use. [See Chart V.D.10, Chart V.D.11 below]

For alcohol, Whites, followed by Hispanics, report the highest percentage of binge drinking between 2007-2017. Hispanics and Asians had decreased binge drinking rates between 2015 and 2017. Whites and Blacks experienced the smallest declines. [See Chart V.D.12, Chart V.D.13 below]

All Substance Use (“Lifetime”)

Alcohol (65.5%) was the most common tried/used substance by Massachusetts high schoolers, followed by cannabis (41.2%) between 2007-2017. While the rates of youth reporting alcohol use have declined between 2007 and 2017, the rates of youth reporting cannabis use have remained relatively stable. In contrast, other illicit substance use remains low among high schoolers. [See Chart V.E.1, Chart V.E.2 below]

Logistic Regression Analyses

Five series of logistical regression models were run to assess effects of varying cannabis policy and/or risky behaviors on substance use outcomes using state-level YRBS data from 2007-2017. All analyses are adjusted for: (1) Year of data collection (2007-2017); (2) Sex [1- Female; 2- Male; Missing], and (3) Race/Ethnicity [1- American Indian/Alaska Native; 2- Asian, 3- Black or African American, 4- Native Hawaiian/Other Pacific Islander, 5- White, 6- Hispanic/Latino, 7- Multiple-Hispanic, 8- Multiple-Non-Hispanic]. Sensitivity analyses models, as noted, are also adjusted for enactment of cannabis legalization in Massachusetts (e.g. decriminalization, medical cannabis, or adult-use cannabis).

Since all dependent “outcome” variables are binary (“yes/no”), tables present the odds ratios and confidence intervals for all models. Odds ratios (OR) are a measure of association between an exposure and outcome and are not simple probabilities. Rather, odds ratios represent the likelihood that an outcome will occur divided by the likelihood that the outcome will not occur, thus, results warrant careful interpretation.³⁰

It is important to note that the associations (or correlations) represented by the ORs between two variables means that these behaviors have a statistical relationship to each other. Results cannot assume that one behavior causes the other without additional evidence (e.g. if drinking coffee and cannabis use are associated, this does not necessarily mean coffee drinking causes cannabis use, or cannabis use causes coffee drinking). There may be a third variable that causes both behaviors. Importantly, lack of evidence does not indicate lack of association. The cannabis research field is in its early stages and there are major gaps in knowledge.

Cannabis Policy and Youth Substance Use Behaviors

Results from YRBS data spanning from 2007-2017 indicate that the enactment of cannabis policies, including decriminalization, medical cannabis, and adult-use, are not statistically associated with greater odds of reporting lifetime and past 30-day substance use behaviors. Conversely, policy enactment analyses suggest these policies are associated with lowered odds among many lifetime and current substance use behaviors. [See Chart V.F.1 below] Results should not be interpreted as cannabis policies negatively impacting youth substance use behaviors, but rather, there may be multiple phenomenon simultaneously occurring that are not adjusted for in the data, which warrant further exploration. Further, all results should be taken into the context of secular trends occurring at the national and state level, which report a decrease in substance use among youth.³¹

Risk and Protective Factors

The second series of logistical regression models assessed associations between risk and protective factors as identified in the literature and cannabis use outcomes. These analyses do not represent an exhaustive list of potential risk and protective factors that may be associated with cannabis use behaviors. [See Appendix III: Associated Risk Factors Justification for a brief rationale for each variable assessed] The aim of these analyses was to identify risk and protective factors associated with youth cannabis use behaviors, and if cannabis policy enactment (i.e. decriminalization, medical cannabis, and adult-use) had moderating effects on cannabis use outcomes.

Results show the varying behaviors and/or experiences that were associated either positively (greater odds suggesting a “risk” factor) or negatively (lower odds suggesting a “protective” factor) with cannabis use outcomes in Massachusetts youth, 2007-2017. The three cannabis use outcomes assessed included: lifetime cannabis use, past 30-day cannabis use, and past 30-day heavy cannabis use. Heavy cannabis use is categorized as youth reporting using cannabis 20≤ times in the past 30 days. [See Chart V.G.1 below]

Protective Factors: Results suggest that select factors assessed may be “protective” against all cannabis use behaviors assessed, including: (1) obtaining better grades (A’s and B’s vs. C’s and D’s), (2) having any adult (family or other adult support), and (3) identifying as heterosexual. Three additional factors showed protective against select cannabis use behaviors. Sport involvement in the past year and physical activity in the past week were both protective against past 30-day heavy cannabis use. Playing video games was protective for both lifetime cannabis use and past 30-day heavy cannabis use behaviors. Protective factors are indicated by odds ratios (OR) less than 1, followed by any significance level, indicated by 1-3 asterisks (e.g. OR 0.58).

Risk Factors: Conversely, results suggest that multiple factors assessed may be “risk” factors for cannabis use. Broadly, these behaviors/experiences fall under: (1) Disability; (2) Risky driving behaviors; (3) Weapon carrying/exposure, violence, and bullying; (4) Hopelessness and suicidality behaviors; and (5) Sexual orientation and sexual behaviors. Risk factors are indicated by OR greater than 1, followed by any significance level, indicated by 1-3 asterisks (e.g. OR 3.91).

Risk and Protective Factors and Cannabis Use Behaviors—Do Cannabis Policies Moderate the Effect of Cannabis Use?

The third series of logistical regression models served as sensitivity analyses to assess if any cannabis policy (i.e. decriminalization, medical cannabis, and adult-use cannabis) moderated the effect size of the varying risk/protective behaviors on cannabis use behaviors. [See Appendix IV: Sensitivity Analyses: Table IV.1., Table IV.2., Table IV.3.]

The only variable that resulted in discernable change when models additionally adjusted for cannabis policy enactment (i.e. decriminalization, medical cannabis, and adult-use cannabis) was driving after alcohol use. For all three cannabis use dependent variables (i.e. lifetime cannabis use, past 30-day cannabis use, and past 30-day heavy cannabis use), decriminalization enactment moderated the effect size of youth reporting driving after drinking alcohol and cannabis use. Similarly, enactment of medical cannabis and adult-use cannabis had similar moderation effects in youth reporting driving after drinking alcohol and heavy cannabis use in the past 30-days. In these models, the odds ratios (OR) associated with cannabis use adjusting for driving after alcohol use is greater than the OR associated with cannabis use when the model adjusts for both driving after alcohol use and decriminalization enactment.

VI. Cannabis Legalization and Youth Use Overview

Cannabis legalization and youth research should include at least three considerations. First, behavior changes may lag policy change.⁷⁻¹⁰ Therefore, it is too early to assess the full impacts of legalization on youth cannabis use and associated behaviors. Second, certain groups of youth (e.g. working youth, youth at risk of a substance use disorder, etc.) may be uniquely impacted. Therefore, impact assessments should consider the diversity of youth (e.g. gender, race/ethnicity, sexuality minority status, disability status, etc.). Third, youth cannabis use occurs in a context. Therefore, research could employ a social ecological or similar model to assess all potential factors affecting an individual. This includes monitoring perception and social norm changes in society, community, familial, and within individuals, alongside cannabis use patterns and rates. [See Section II. Important Considerations] This section provides a brief overview on research assessing the impact of cannabis policy on youth cannabis use.

There are mixed findings as to whether cannabis decriminalization is associated with increased youth cannabis use.³² Research has not found that medical cannabis legalization increases youth cannabis use.^{2,33-39} Early findings are mixed as to whether adult-use legalization increases youth use.^{34,40-42} However, meaningful changes to use are likely to be lagged.

Decriminalization

While most decriminalization research occurred in the 1980 and 90s, three recent studies were identified.^{32,43-45} In a review, Melchior et al. 2019 identified 13 studies which examined the impact of decriminalization on youth. Out of the five high quality studies, four found no impact to youth use and one found use increased.⁴⁴ In a multi-country study, Shi et al. 2015 did not find a significant effect of decriminalization of youth use.⁴⁵ In contrast, Miech et al. 2015 examined a 2010 California change in policy, which removed criminal penalties for small amounts of cannabis and found that 12th graders in California were increasingly likely to report current cannabis use compared to changes among peers in other states.³²

Medical Cannabis Legalization

Research has not found significant increases in youth cannabis use following medical cannabis legalization.^{2,33-39,44} While cannabis use rates are higher among youth who live in states with medical cannabis, most researchers found higher rates preceded medical cannabis legalization and were not a result of policy change.^{2,33-39}

Adult-use Cannabis Legalization

Research assessing the impact of adult-use cannabis policy is in its infancy and long-term effects are unknown. Cerda et al. 2017 found that Washington youth (8th and 10th graders) rates of cannabis use increased following adult-use legalization but Colorado youth rates did not change, suggesting there may be state-to-state differences.^{34,40} Others have also found no increase in Colorado youth rates.^{41,42} One metaanalysis found adult-use legalization was associated with a small increase in youth cannabis use.⁴⁴ A Washington study of heavy youth users found that their patterns also remained steady after legalization, although participants reported more problematic use symptoms after legalization.⁴⁶ A longitudinal study from Oregon found that never-using youth did not increase use, but those with a history of cannabis use increased their use following legalization.⁴⁷ Early findings suggest legalization will not affect all youth equally.

Certain youth groups may be negatively affected by cannabis legalization policies compared to their peers. For example, Graves et al. 2019 found that working youth had increased rates of cannabis use following legalization, unlike their non-working peers.⁴⁸ Authors suggest rising rates of cannabis use and changing social norms among adult coworkers may create pressure and/or increase access to cannabis.⁴⁸ These youth also may have more disposable income than non-working peers.⁴⁸ Importantly, these findings are associations and cannot be assumed as causal.

Youth at risk for problem cannabis use (“cannabis use disorders [CUDs]”) may be disproportionality affected by legalization.⁴⁶ A small study of Colorado substance use treatment providers found that providers observed that more of their clients viewed cannabis use as socially acceptable in recent years.⁴⁹ These providers also reported seeing greater access to and use of highly potent cannabis in their youth clients.⁴⁹ Providers emphasized the increased potential for substance use disorders when using potent products.⁴⁹ Higher potency products and method of consumption both contribute to the likelihood of developing a cannabis use disorder, and may be impacted by cannabis legalization. Youth use trends in the general population, specific cohorts, and those in treatment for substance use disorders should be monitored.

Challenges and Limitations

There are major challenges to conducting this research. Research on states that legalize cannabis are not true experiments, state differences effect whether or not a state legalizes cannabis.³⁴ Statistical methods can help control for these differences but state comparisons are imperfect to detect what might have happened within a state if it had not legalized. Other challenges surround the differences in policies, regulation, and implementation (“heterogeneity”) between legalized states. This heterogeneity may result in different outcomes between states. For example, Borodovsky et al. 2018 found that youth in states with a higher density of cannabis dispensaries were more likely to have consumed an edible or vaporized cannabis.⁵⁰ Additionally, youth edible use was only associated with legalized states that permit home grow.⁵⁰ Importantly, behavior changes resulting from legalization may be lagged.³⁴ To potentially isolate these lagged effects, researchers examine perceptions, which may precede behavior change; however, using perceptions to predict behavior is also imperfect.

VII. Literature Reviews

Perceptions of Harm

AIM: This section synthesizes literature around trends in youth perception of the harm (“risk”) from cannabis use.

A lower perception of a substance’s riskiness is associated with a greater likelihood of using the substance.⁵¹ Therefore, changes to risk perception of cannabis are critical to monitor, particularly for youth. It is also important to know whether cannabis policies have an impact on risk perceptions. This section presents past-decade findings for youth cannabis risk perceptions nationally, and assesses whether medical and adult-use cannabis policies impact risk perception.

Methods

The search focused on youth perceptions of the harms (“risks”) of cannabis use in the past ten years in the U.S. It also examined whether medical and adult-use cannabis policies impacted perceptions. Only studies that directly collected or reported on youth (i.e. <18 years-old) were included. Studies published in 2009 through May 2019 were identified using GoogleScholar, the reference sections of identified articles and author libraries with search terms including the following: “youth,” “adolescent,” “perception,” “perceived,” “risk,” “harm,” “cannabis,” “marijuana,” “use,” “medical,” and “legalization.”

From these methods twenty-three studies were identified.^{2,3,54–63,4,64–66,5,6,40,41,46,52,53} Studies analyzed varying surveys, including: Monitoring the Future (MTF),^{2–4,40,61,65,66} National Survey of Drug Use and Health (NSDUH),^{4–6,52–54,62,67} Healthy Kids Colorado (HKC),^{41,64} Washington Healthy Youth Survey (WHKS),⁵⁵ Community Youth Development Study (longitudinal),⁵⁶ National Longitudinal Study of Youth (NLSY),⁵⁷ a commercial panel sample,⁶³ and smaller non-representative samples.^{46,58–60} The majority of studies were cross sectional designs, meaning they looked at a snapshot in time.

National Time Trends

Youth perceptions of cannabis’ risks have declined over the past decade. This trend is consistent across two important national surveillance surveys: Monitoring the Future (MTF) and the National Survey of Drug Use and Health (NSDUH).^{4,34} Five studies examined youth perceptions of cannabis risk over time, and all found that risk perceptions decreased over time.²⁻⁶

MTF findings suggest that cannabis risk perceptions among youth have declined since 1991.² MTF asks, “How much do you think people risk harming themselves (physically or in other ways) if they smoke marijuana regularly?”⁴ In 2018, the lowest percent of 8th, 10th, and 12th graders reported regular cannabis use as a great risk to harm.⁶⁸ Among 8th graders, 52.9% reported that people who smoke marijuana regularly were at great risk, 38.1% of 10th graders, and 26.7% of 12th graders also reported great risk.⁶⁸ Chen et al. 2018 found dose response evidence between perceiving harm and frequency of use (i.e. as perceived harm decreases, frequency of use increases).⁶⁶ Younger youth consistently perceived cannabis as more risky than older youth.^{62,68,69}

The NSDUH survey similarly found perceived risks of cannabis use have decreased among youth.^{5,6} This survey asks, “How much do people risk harming themselves physically and in other ways when they smoke marijuana once or twice a week?”⁴ In 2017, 37.7% of 12-17 year-olds reported that it was a great risk to smoke once or twice a week.⁶⁹ Schmidt et al. 2016 found that there has been a notable decrease in perceived riskiness from 2009 on.⁶ A number of researchers examined whether state-level medical cannabis legalization contributed to decreasing risk perceptions among youth.

Impact of Medical Marijuana Policies

Despite concerns that medical cannabis policies “send youth the wrong message,”⁶ most studies have not found associations between medical policies and decreased perceptions of risk among youth. Five studies examined whether medical cannabis policies were associated with a decrease in youth perceptions of cannabis’ risks.^{2,6,52-54} Four national studies did not find evidence that medical cannabis policies were associated with decreases in risk perception,^{2,6,52,53} but one study found medical cannabis commercialization in Colorado was associated with a decrease.⁵⁴

Research with MTF has not found that medical cannabis policies decrease youth cannabis risk perception. Keyes et al. 2016 found that medical cannabis policies had no effect on youth risk perceptions overall or by grade.² In fact, 8th graders perceived risk of cannabis use increased following medical legalization.²

Similarly, most studies using NSDUH data have found that medical cannabis policies are not associated with decreased youth perception of risk. In a replication study, Harper et al. 2012 found no effect of medical cannabis policies on perceptions.⁵² Schmidt et al. 2016 and Wen et al. 2019 also found no effect of medical cannabis policies on youth risk perception in NSDUH.^{6,67} In contrast, Schuermeyer et al. 2014 examined Colorado NSDUH data before and after medical cannabis commercialization (2009) rather than an enactment or implementation date and found youth perceived risks of cannabis decreased following this period.⁵⁴ Causality could not be assessed.

There were important limitations to these studies. Briefly, all studies were quasi-experimental, meaning youth were not randomly assigned to a legalized or non-legalized state, therefore, studies could not assess causality. All studies were cross-sectional, meaning they looked at a snapshot in time and did not follow a group across time (longitudinal). Additionally, there may be spillover effects from one legalized state to other non-legal states, which could obscure potential effects of legalization.⁶

Although youth in states with medical cannabis policies have lower perceived risk of cannabis,⁵³ this may not be attributed to policy change, but rather result from other factors, including lower risk perception before legalization and national trends. However, further research, including state specific analyses incorporating policy heterogeneity should be conducted to more comprehensively assess potential changes.⁵⁷ Thus far, data suggests that decreases in youth perceptions of harm are occurring nationally and not as a result of state specific medical cannabis legalization.²

Impact of Adult-use Marijuana Policies

Given the recency of adult-use cannabis policies, research has not yet fully assessed their impact on youth risk perception— and current findings are mixed. Six studies examined adult-use legalization.^{40,41,46,60,63,64}

Cerdá et al. 2017 found that perceptions of harm significantly decreased following adult-use legalization in Washington among youth in 8th and 10th grades, but perceptions did not decrease among Washington 12th graders or Colorado youth in comparison to peers in non-legalized states.⁴⁰ Assessing retail store implementation, rather than year of legalization enactment, Harpin et al. 2018 found no change in risk perception.⁶⁴ Conversely Brooks-Russell et al. 2019 found a decrease in perceived harm among Colorado youth.^{41,64} A small study of students enrolled in a prevention program found youth who entered the program after legalization enactment had lower perceived risks of cannabis than those who enrolled prior to legalization enactment.⁶⁰ In another study, Blevins et al. 2018 found no change in perception of risk or use rates among youth cannabis users in Seattle who were surveyed before and adult-use legalization.⁴⁶

Asking different questions on perceived harmfulness of regular cannabis use and effects on mental health, an online commercial panel surveyed a sample of U.S. youth aged 16-19 years-old (n=4,097).⁶³ Cannabis users were asked whether they worried about damaging their health in the future.⁶³ No differences in harm perceptions between non-legalized states, legalized states without markets, and legalized states with retail markets were found in this survey.⁶³ Additional research with longer follow-up periods is needed to assess the full and potentially lagged impact(s) of adult-use legalization on youth perceptions of harm.

Impact of Riskiness on Use

Lower perceptions of cannabis' risks have been associated with increased likelihood of use; However, recent decreases in perceived risk of cannabis have not been associated with equivalent increases in youth use.⁵⁵ This has caused some researchers to question whether the association between lower risk perception of cannabis and use remains true. Five studies were identified that examined impact of riskiness on use, or analyzed mechanisms around why use rates are not similarly rising.^{4,55,56,65,70} Research suggests risk perception is still an important risk factor for use,^{4,55,56,65,70} but decreased cigarette smoking (another risk factor) may explain why youth cannabis use has not changed at a similar pace as risk perception.^{4,55}

Between 1991 and 2016, the proportion of 12th graders who thought cannabis posed no risk increased by 11% while cannabis use increased by approximately 1% (MTF).⁴ Decreased risk perception without equivalent rises in youth use had similarly been found in NSDUH.⁷¹ Braymiller et al. 2018 categorized MTF respondents by use patterns and perceptions, and found that youth who do not use cannabis reported greater approval of peers' cannabis use from 2010 to 2016.⁶¹ This indicates perception changes are occurring among both youth who use cannabis and those who do not.

MTF analyses indicate that perceiving cannabis use as risky remains a protective factor against use.^{65,70} From 1991 to 2016, Terry-McElrath et al. 2017 found that the association between great risk perception and cannabis use strengthened for Hispanics and weakened for Blacks, while remaining stable for Whites and between genders.⁷⁰ In this sample, perception of moderate risk increased in strength as a protective factor over time.⁷⁰ Similarly, in a longitudinal non-national study (Community Youth Development Study), Guttmanova et al. 2019 documented an association between lower perceived harm of cannabis and the increased likelihood of use for 8th, 10th, and 12th graders, but not 9th graders.⁵⁶

Two studies found the potentially weakening association between riskiness and use could be partially explained by decreased alcohol and cigarette use, which are risk factors for cannabis use.^{3,55} Miech et al. 2017 found that decreased cigarette use largely accounted for the lack of increase in cannabis use rates found among youth (MTF, 1991-2016).³ Similarly, in a Washington state sample of 10th graders, Fleming et al. 2016 found the association between perceived riskiness of cannabis and use remained but decreases in cigarette use explained the lack of increased cannabis use that would be expected.⁵⁵ In a qualitative study assessing the risks of cigarettes and cannabis, youth reported greater harm for cigarettes than cannabis.⁵⁹ In sum, the research suggests youth perception of risk contributes to their likelihood of using cannabis, but other associated risk/protective factors (e.g. cigarette smoking) matter. Youth prevention efforts should leverage multiple protective factors to maximize impact.⁵⁸

Ease of Access

AIM: This section synthesizes literature around how easily youth believe they could access cannabis.

Perceived access to cannabis is associated with youth use of the substance.⁷² Therefore, changes to perceived access are important to monitor. It is also important to know whether changes in cannabis policies impact access perceptions. This section presents findings from U.S. samples within the past ten years that examine youth perceptions of cannabis access, and whether medical and adult-use cannabis policies impact perceived access.

Methods

The search focused on youth perceived ease of access to cannabis within the past decade. It also examined whether medical and adult-use cannabis policies impacted access perceptions. Only studies that directly collected or reported on youth (i.e. <18 years-old) were included. Studies published from 2009 through May 2019 were identified using GoogleScholar, in reference sections of identified articles, and within author libraries using the following search terms: “ease of access” “how easy would it be,” “marijuana,” “cannabis,” “youth,” “adolescent,” “access,” “availability,” “obtain,” “legalization.”

Fourteen studies were identified.^{5,41,74–77,55,62–64,66,67,72,73} Studies used national surveys including: National Survey of Drug Use and Health (NSDUH),^{5,62,67,73,74,77} Monitoring the Future (MTF),^{66,73} and a commercial panel survey.⁶³ Others used state samples including: Healthy Kids Colorado (HKC),^{41,64} Washington Healthy Youth Survey (WHYS),⁵⁵ and Prevention Needs Assessment Community Student Survey (Montana).⁷⁵ Additionally, one study used a handheld monitoring device to conduct a momentary assessment of cannabis use factors.⁷²

While most U.S. youth report easy or fairly easy access to cannabis, easy access appears to be declining among youth in the U.S.^{5,73,76} Five studies examined youth self-reported access to cannabis overtime.^{5,67,68,73,77}

MTF asked: “How difficult do you think it would be for you to get each of the following types of drugs (e.g. Marijuana), if you wanted some?”⁴ In 2018, 35% of 8th graders, 65% of 10th graders, and 80% of 12th graders reported that cannabis was “fairly easy” or “very easy” to obtain.⁶⁸ This represents a decrease among 8th and 10th graders but is consistent for 12th graders with rates ranging between 80-90% since 1975.^{68,77} Younger youth consistently report less access to cannabis than older youth.⁶⁸

NSDUH data also suggests that youth are reporting less access to cannabis nationally; however there was a slight increase in access between 2016 and 2017.⁷³ This survey asked: “How difficult or easy would it be for you to get some marijuana, if you wanted some?”⁷⁴ In 2017, 46.1% of 12-17 year-olds reported it would be “fairly easy” or “easy” to obtain cannabis if desired. This is a small increase from 2016.⁶² Conversely, from 2002 to 2015, 27% fewer 12-17 year-olds reported it would be “very easy” for them to obtain cannabis.⁷³ This decrease was pronounced among 12-14 year-olds (42% reduction), and consistent between gender, race/ethnicity, and income levels.⁷³ In contrast, youth reporting tobacco use and involvement with the juvenile delinquency system did not have reductions in “very easy” access.⁷³ Similarly, Azofeifa et al. 2016 and Wen et al. 2019 found a decrease in youth perceived availability from 2002-2014 and 2004-2012 respectively.^{5,67}

Impact of Medical Marijuana Policies

While youth living in states with medical cannabis policies report easier access to cannabis, legalization did not appear to increase access.^{67,77}

Wen et al. 2019 examined whether there were differences in states that implemented medical cannabis policies compared to those that did not (NSDUH 2004-2012).⁶⁷ Researchers found there were no changes in perceived availability between youth in states with and without medical cannabis.⁶⁷ In a different time frame (2004-2013), Martins et al. 2016 also found that medical cannabis policies were not associated with a change in perceived availability of cannabis among youth.⁷⁷

In a Montana sample (2010), Friese and Grube 2013 found higher numbers of medical cannabis cards and a greater percentage of votes in favor of medical legalization in a student’s county were separately associated with perceived easier access.⁷⁵ Authors concluded that increased access may be related to community norms around cannabis use.⁷⁵ However, they note limitations around using county-level data, a low response rate among students, and that findings may not be generalizable.⁷⁵ Further research should include policy heterogeneity to better assess any impact on access.

Impact of Adult-use Marijuana Policies

Research has not yet fully assessed the impact of adult-use cannabis legalization on youth perceived ease of access. Four studies examined adult-use legalization.^{41,55,63,64}

There are mixed findings regarding whether adult-use legalization increases access among youth shortly following enactment or implementation. One Colorado statewide sample found perceived ease of access to cannabis increased following implementation of adult-use retail sales.⁶⁴ Specifically, students reporting cannabis was “sort of easy” and “very easy” to access increased from 46% to 52%.⁶⁴ This increase was not associated with the presence of a licensed retail store within two miles of their school.⁶⁴ Note this finding is an association— causation cannot be determined.⁶⁴ However, also using Healthy Kids Colorado, Brooks-Russell et al. 2019 examined pre- (2013) and post- (2015) retail cannabis sales, and found no difference in perceived ease of access among Colorado high schoolers.⁴¹ In a Washington statewide sample, perceived ease of access decreased from 2010-2014.⁵⁵ It is important to note that adult-use legalization was enacted in 2012 and retail stores opened in 2014 so this study does not assess the impact of implementation.⁵⁵

One study compared ease of access in legalized states with a market (“implemented”), legal states without a market yet (“enacted”) and non-adult-use but legal medical use states. Wadsworth and Hammond 2018 found that youth living in states with and without adult-use markets established reported similar rates of “easiness” to obtaining cannabis compared to those in non-adult-use states (commercial sample of 16-19 year-olds).⁶³

Impact of Ease of Access on Use

Perceived access to cannabis is associated with youth use of cannabis.⁷² In NSDUH data from 2004-2013, Martins et al. 2016 found that perceived availability of cannabis was associated with past-month use among youth.⁷⁷ Similarly, Shrier et al. 2014 found that perceived availability was associated with having any desire to use cannabis.⁷² Further, Chen et al. 2018 found evidence of a dose-response relationship between perceived access and frequency of cannabis use.⁶⁶ In this MTF sample, the association was strongest for older youth compared to younger youth, and stronger for younger boys than younger girls.⁶⁶

Sources of Purchase

AIM: This section synthesizes literature on youth sources of cannabis and purchasing patterns.

Understanding how youth access cannabis is critical to prevention. Any potential changes to sources of cannabis, whether purchased or received for free, should be monitored. It is also critical to examine whether sources and access change as a result of cannabis legalization and commercialization. This section includes U.S. samples within the past ten years.

Methods

The search focused on youth cannabis sources of purchase in the past decade. Only studies that directly collected or reported on youth cannabis sources were included, theoretical frameworks and studies that only assess use rates and/or perceptions were not included in this section. Studies on young adults and adults were excluded. Studies published in 2009 through April 2019 were identified in GoogleScholar, reference sections, and author libraries with search terms including: “youth,” “adolescent,” “teen,” “cannabis,” “marijuana,” “access,” “source,” “purchase,” and “free.”

Six studies were identified.^{5,74,78-81} Studies used Monitoring the Future (MTF),⁷⁹ National Survey on Drug Use and Health (NSDUH),⁷⁴ Healthy Kids Washington (HKW),⁷⁸ court diversion program survey,⁸⁰ and a survey of Colorado youth in outpatient substance use treatment.⁸¹ One study used focus groups to examine edible cannabis use.⁸² All studies were cross-sectional and could not examine changes over time or establish causality.

Purchasing and Non-Purchasing Trends

In NSDUH, (2012) 59.1% of youth cannabis users reported obtaining cannabis for free (“non-purchasers”) and 39.1% reported purchasing cannabis for their last consumption.⁷⁴ Females and younger youth (12-13 years-old) were more likely to report obtaining cannabis for free.⁷⁴ Azofeifa et al. 2016 found an increase in both purchased and a decrease in freely obtained cannabis from 2002 to 2014.⁵ The lack of recent national data to assess purchasing trends represents a limitation to these findings.

Some research suggests that those who purchase cannabis rather than obtain it freely are at a greater risk of negative outcomes. King et al. 2016 found that males, youth aged 14-17, and those who used cannabis in the past month had lower odds of obtaining cannabis for free or sharing it.⁷⁴ Similarly, cannabis purchasers in a survey of high-risk youth reported greater days of cannabis use and greater risk of substance use disorder.⁸⁰ The high-risk sample found no difference between the demographics of cannabis purchasers and non-purchasers.⁸⁰ In a study of high-risk California youth, Osilla et al. 2014 found that those who reported purchasing both cannabis and alcohol were at greater risk of risky outcomes, particularly increased alcohol use.⁸⁰

Most youth reported obtaining cannabis from a friend or person in their peer network.^{74,78,80} In NSDUH (2012), the majority of purchased (33%) and free (26.4%) cannabis was obtained from a friend.⁷⁴ Nearly seven percent of youth reported purchasing from someone they just met or did not know, and 1.6% purchased from a relative/family member.⁷⁴ Blacks and those who reported 6-19 days of cannabis use in the last 20 days had higher odds of reporting last purchase from someone they just met or did not know in this sample.⁷⁴ In a sample of Washington state 10th graders after adult-use legalization enactment, the majority of participants reported receiving cannabis from peers, but 18% reported giving someone money to purchase for them, 11% accessed cannabis from their home with or without parent permission, and another 6% reported buying cannabis themselves at a retail store.⁷⁸

Location

In NSDUH (2012), nearly 37% of youth reported their last cannabis purchase occurred in a house, apartment, or dorm, and nearly 36% reported their last purchase was outdoors in a public area.⁷⁴ Blacks and heavier users (used cannabis 6-19 days of the last 30 days) had higher odds of making an outdoor purchase compared to Whites and less heavy users (1-2 days in the last 30 days).⁷⁴ More recent data is needed to explore this trend and any impact of legalization.

Medical Cannabis

While few youth reported use of another person's medical cannabis, those who do may be at greater risk for other risky behaviors.^{79,81} In a MTF analysis (2012, 2013), Boyd et al. 2015 found that 6.1% of 12th graders reported use of someone else's medical cannabis in the past year.⁷⁹ Males and Whites were more likely to report using someone else's medical cannabis.⁷⁹ Compared to illicit cannabis users who did not use someone's medical cannabis, users of someone else's medical cannabis were at greater risk for reporting 10 or more cannabis use incidences, daily use, use with intention of getting high, being "hooked," being drunk in the past year, illegal prescription drug, and other illicit substance use.⁷⁹ In a small sample of Colorado youth in treatment for substance use disorders, nearly 49% reported ever using cannabis from another person's medical supply.⁸¹ Those who reported use of another's medical cannabis in this sample also reported greater substance use problems.⁸¹

Perception of Parent Disapproval

AIM: This section synthesizes literature on youth perception of parental disapproval of their use of cannabis.

Youth perception that their parents would disapprove of substance use is a protective factor against youth substance use.⁵¹ Therefore, the extent to which youth perceive their parents as disapproving of cannabis use is important to monitor. It is also important to know whether changes to cannabis policies impact youth perception of parental disapproval and/or actual parental disapproval. This section presents findings from U.S. samples within the past ten years.

Methods

The search focused on perceived parental disapproval of youth cannabis use in the past decade. It did not examine parents' actual disapproval levels. It also examined whether medical and adult-use cannabis policies impacted perceptions. Only studies that directly collected or reported on youth (i.e. <18 years-old) were included. Studies published in 2009 through April 2019 were identified in GoogleScholar, reference sections of identified articles, and author libraries with search terms including: "marijuana," "cannabis," "youth," "adolescent," "perceived parental," and "parent."

Eleven studies were identified.^{5,6,87,41,56,62,67,83–86} Studies used the National Survey of Drug Use and Health survey (NSDUH),^{5,6,62,67,84} Monitoring the Future (MTF),⁸⁷ Community Youth Development Study,⁵⁶ a survey of American Indian 7th – 12th graders,⁸³ Healthy Kids Colorado,⁴¹ and Oregon Healthy Teens survey.⁸⁵

Three studies examined perceptions of parental disapproval of youth cannabis use over time.^{5,62,87} Although the majority of youth perceived that their parents strongly disapprove of cannabis use, NSDUH data showed a decrease in youth who perceive that their parents strongly disapprove of cannabis use.⁶² This survey asked whether their parents would "neither approve nor disapprove," "somewhat disapprove," or "strongly disapprove" if they used cannabis.⁶² In 2017, 86.5% of 12-17 year-olds reported their parents would strongly disapprove of them using cannabis once or twice, and 89% reported that their parents would strongly disapprove of them using cannabis once a month or more.⁶² This represents a decrease from 2002-2015. Conversely rates of strong parental disapproval increased for cigarette smoking and alcohol use.⁶² An earlier analysis (2004-2014) found a decrease in perceived (strongly or somewhat) parental disapproval for current youth cannabis users, but no change for youth overall.⁵

Younger youth consistently report more parental disapproval than older youth (e.g. 93.7% of 12-13 year-olds and 76.5% of 16-17 year-olds reported parents would strongly disprove of them trying cannabis once or twice).^{56,88}

In 2017, MTF asked 12th graders whether their parents would disapprove of their cannabis use. This question had not been asked in the survey for the past 39 years, therefore recent trends could not be assessed.⁸⁷ Seventeen percent of 12th graders reported that their parents would not disapprove of cannabis use once or twice, and 13% believed their parents would not disprove of regular cannabis use.⁸⁷ Compared to the last time this question was asked (mid- to late 1970s), more 12th graders believed that their parents do not disapprove of cannabis use.⁸⁷

Impact of Medical Marijuana Policies

Three studies were identified that assessed whether medical cannabis policies were associated with lower perceptions of parental disapproval of youth cannabis use.^{6,67,85,86}

A NSDUH analysis (2004-2013) found that while perceived parental approval of a youth trying cannabis was higher in medicinally legalized states, this finding was not a result of legalization.⁶ Rather, Schmidt et al. 2016 found that a national trend toward more permissive perceptions were higher in states that ultimately enacted legalization.⁶ Wen et al. 2019 also examined whether there were differences in states that implemented medical cannabis policies compared to those that did not (NSDUH 2004-2012).⁶⁷ Researchers found that medical cannabis implementation was associated with a 0.37% increase in youth perceived parental disapproval of cannabis use.⁶⁷ Similarly, a small study in Washington state found that parents remained strongly disapproving of youth cannabis following adult-use legalization.⁸⁶ In contrast, Paschall et al. 2017 found that parental disapproval decreased in all counties from 2006 to 2015, and levels were lower in counties with more medical cannabis patients and growers using a statewide survey in Oregon.⁸⁵

Impact of Adult-use Marijuana Policies

Research has not yet fully assessed the impact of adult-use cannabis legalization on youth perceived parental disapproval. One study examined adult-use legalization.⁴¹

Using Healthy Kids Colorado, Brooks-Russell et al. 2019 examined pre- (2013) and post- (2015) retail cannabis sales and found no difference in perceived parental approval of cannabis use among Colorado high schoolers.⁴¹

Impact of Parent Disapproval on Use

Three studies were identified that examined whether youth perceptions of parental disapproval of cannabis use were associated with less youth use (“protective factor”).^{56,83} All studies found that youth perceptions of parental disapproval of cannabis use acts as a protective factor against youth cannabis use.^{56,83,84}

Wu et al. 2015 examined perceived parental disapproval and cannabis use in NSDUH data (2004-2012) and found parental disapproval was associated with less cannabis use for all racial and ethnic groups except Native Hawaiians/Pacific Islanders.⁸⁴ Asian-Americans reported the highest levels of parental disapproval.⁸⁴ Guttmanova et al. 2019 found that youth perceptions that their parents did not think it was wrong for them to use cannabis predicted youth cannabis use one year later.⁵⁶ In a sample of American Indian youth in 7th through 12th grade, Stanley et al. 2017 similarly found that students who perceived their parents as disapproving of cannabis use was a protective factor against using cannabis.⁸³

Perception of Friend Approval

AIM: This section synthesizes literature on youth perceptions of friends' approval of them using cannabis.

Youth perception that their friends' disapprove of substance use is a protective factor for youth substance use.⁸⁹ Therefore, the extent to which youth perceive their peers as disapproving or approving of cannabis is important to monitor. It is also important to know whether changes to cannabis policies impact these perceptions. This section presents findings from U.S. national and state-wide samples published in the past ten years.

Methods

The search focused on perceived friend approval of cannabis use in the past decade. It also examined whether medical and adult-use cannabis policies impacted perceptions. This section did not examine perceived or true rates of peer's cannabis use. Only studies that directly collected or reported on youth (i.e. <18 years-old) were included. Studies published in 2009 through April 2019 were identified in GoogleScholar, reference sections of identified articles, and author libraries with search terms including: "marijuana," "cannabis," "youth," "adolescent," "perceived peer," "peer," "approval," and "friends' approval."

Six studies were identified.^{56,62,84,87,90,91} Studies used National Survey of Drug Use and Health survey (NSDUH),^{62,84} Monitoring the Future (MTF),⁸⁷ the Community Youth Development Study,⁵⁶ the national survey of parents and youth,⁹¹ and a non-representative sample of heavy users.⁹⁰

National Time Trends

Both MTF and the NSDUH measure perceived friend approval.^{87,88} MTF asked 12th graders, "How do you think your close friends feel (or would feel) about you [trying marijuana once or twice; smoking marijuana occasionally; and smoking marijuana regularly]."⁸⁷ In 2017, 44% of 12th graders reported that their friends would disapprove of them experimenting with cannabis, and 65% reported that their friends would disapprove of them regularly smoking cannabis.⁸⁷ The percent of youth perceiving friend disapproval of cannabis use has trended downward in the past decade.⁸⁷

NSDUH also assesses perceptions of close friends' views of cannabis. In 2017, 93% of 12-13 year-olds, 79.1% of 14-15 year-olds, and 63.6% of 16-17 year-olds reported that their close friends would strongly or somewhat disapprove of them trying cannabis once or twice.⁸⁸ There was a significant decrease among 14-15 year-olds from 2016 to 2017.⁸⁸ A slightly higher proportion of youth reported their close friends would disapprove of them using cannabis once a month or more (94% of 12-13 year-olds, 81.71% of 14-15 year-olds, and 65.5% of 16-17 year-olds).⁸⁸

Impact of Medical Marijuana Policies

No studies were identified that assessed if medical cannabis policies were associated with changes in perception of friend approval of cannabis use.

Impact of Adult-Use Marijuana Policies

No studies were identified that assessed if adult-use cannabis policies were associated with changes in perception of friend approval of cannabis use.

Impact of Friends' Disapproval on Use

Four studies were identified that examined whether youth perceptions of friends' disapproval of cannabis use were associated with decreased youth use ("protective factor").^{56,84,90,91} All found that perceiving friend disapproved of one's use was a protective factor against youth use.^{56,84,90,91} However, researchers note this association is likely impacted by many factors including: having a friend that uses the substance will increase likelihood of use and someone who uses or does not use substances may seek friends with similar behaviors.⁸⁷

Wu et al. 2015 examined perceived close friends' disapproval and cannabis use in NSDUH data (2004-2012) and found that close friend disapproval was associated with less cannabis use for all racial and ethnic groups except among Native Hawaiians/Pacific Islanders.⁸⁴ Guttmanova et al. 2019 found that 9th graders who perceived their peers as more approving and using more had higher cannabis use rates in 10th grade.⁵⁶ Additionally, Hohman et al. 2014 found that youth who held a neutral view of cannabis were more likely to be affected by perceptions of close friends compared to those with strongly held positive or negative views of cannabis.⁹¹ In a sample of heavy users in Seattle, Washington, Walker et al. 2011 found that perceived friend approval was associated with use of cannabis, and mediated through self-efficacy in the ability to refuse cannabis.⁹⁰

Disapproval of Peer Use

AIM: This section synthesizes previous literature on trends in youths' disapproval of same-aged youth ("peer") use of cannabis.

Less work has been done on youth attitudes around cannabis and their subsequent use, compared to tobacco and alcohol, or compared to college-aged students and emerging adults.⁹² Approval or less disapproval of peers' cannabis use is associated with cannabis use among youth.⁶² It is also important to know whether changes to cannabis policies impact youths' disapproval. This section presents findings from U.S. samples within the past ten years.

Methods

The search focused on youths' disapproval of peer cannabis use in the past decade. It also examined whether medical and adult-use cannabis policies impacted perceptions. Only studies that directly collected or reported on youth (i.e. <18 years-old) were included. Studies isolated to small geographic sampling (e.g. one county or city) were excluded. Studies published in 2009 through April 2019 were identified in GoogleScholar, reference sections of identified articles, and author libraries with search terms including: "marijuana," "cannabis," "youth," "adolescent," "personal disapproval," "peer," "personal acceptance," "favorable," and "approval."

Six studies were identified.^{41,55,56,62,67,84} Studies used the National Survey of Drug Use and Health survey (NSDUH),^{62,67,84} Community Youth Development Study,⁵⁶ Washington State Healthy Youth Survey,⁵⁵ and Healthy Kids Colorado.⁴¹

National Time Trends

Two studies examined youth disapproval of same-aged peers' use of cannabis over time, results appear specific to age group.^{62,73}

NSDUH asks whether youth "neither approve nor disapprove," "somewhat disapprove," or "strongly disapprove" of their peers using cannabis.⁶² In 2017, 78.8% of 12-17 year-olds reported that they strongly or somewhat disapproved of peers trying cannabis once or twice, and 79% reported that they strongly or somewhat disapproved of peers using cannabis once a month or more.⁸⁸ This represents a decrease from 2016 perceptions of trying and monthly use of cannabis (80%, 80.2%, respectively).⁸⁸

Importantly, there are differences between younger and older youth.⁷³ Older youth consistently report less disapproval of peer substance use compared to younger youth. Nearly 94% of 12-13 year-olds and 65% of 16-17 year-olds reported that they strongly or somewhat disapproved of peers trying cannabis once or twice in 2017.⁸⁸ Further, the decrease in disapproval of peer use between 2016 to 2017 was only significant among 14-15 year-olds.⁸⁸

Additionally, Salas-Wright et al. 2016 note that separate analysis of “strong disapproval” and “somewhat disapproval” rather than treating them as one category impacts results.⁷³ In their analysis of 2002 to 2013 NSDUH data, Salas-Wright et al. 2016 found an increase in strong disapproval among younger youth between 2002 and 2013.⁷³ However, they observed a decrease in strong disapproval among older youth between 2009 and 2013, driven by decreases in disapproval among 17 year-olds, which returned to 2002 levels.⁷³ Authors conclude that youth trends towards permissiveness have not been similarly affected as adults.⁷³

MTF asks about disapproval of use by adults 18 years old and older, but does not ask about peer use disapproval.⁸⁷ Therefore, results are not included in this section.

Impact of Medical Marijuana Policies

One study was identified that attempted to determine if medical cannabis policies were associated with a change in youth approval of peer cannabis use.⁶⁷

Wen et al. 2019 examined NSDUH data (2004-2012) and found that there was no change in youth acceptance of peer cannabis use following medical cannabis legalization.⁶⁷

Impact of Adult-use Marijuana Policies

Research has not yet fully assessed the impact of adult-use cannabis legalization on peer disapproval. Two studies examined adult-use legalization.^{41,55}

Brooks-Russell et al. 2019 assessed how youth perceived cannabis use by same-aged peers before (2013) and after (2015) adult-use implementation, and found no effect of adult-use legalization in Colorado (Healthy Kids Colorado).⁴¹ In Washington state, Fleming et al. 2016 found that youth reported less or similar perceived peer wrongness following legalization.⁵⁵ Similarly to perceived harm, where this measure once tracked cannabis use (which has decreased), it has since diverged.⁵⁵ However, authors note that this could be due to the increased medical cannabis market in 2009 and/or adult-use legalization in 2012. Authors additionally note that these recent changes might reflect the effects of rapid expansion of the medical cannabis market after 2009 and the legalization of recreational cannabis in 2012.⁵⁵

Impact of Disapproval of Peer Use

Three studies were identified that examined whether youth disapproval of peer use of cannabis was associated with decreased youth use (“protective factor”).^{15,55,84} All found that youth disapproval of cannabis use was associated with decreased cannabis use.^{15,55,84}

In a longitudinal cohort, youth were asked how wrong they think it is for someone their age to smoke cannabis, Guttmanova et al. 2019 found that more accepting attitudes preceded use one year later at most years measured.¹⁵ Heavy cannabis use was also associated with increased approval and other perception risk factors one year later.¹⁵

Wu et al. 2015 examined disapproval of cannabis use by same-aged peers and self-reported cannabis use in NSDUH data (2004-2012) and found that disapproval was associated with less cannabis use for all racial and ethnic groups.⁸⁴ Fleming et al. also looked this association among Washington state youth, and similarly found an association.⁵⁵

Overview: Methods and Types of Use

Inhalation

Smoking

Smoking cannabis refers to the combustion of cannabis flower and the inhalation of smoke emitted. Among youth users, smoking is the most common method of cannabis consumption.⁹³ There are an array of devices and methods used to smoke cannabis and each method will affect the amount of smoke inhaled.

In the U.S., joints and blunts typically refer to cannabis rolled in a paper for smoking.⁹⁴ Blunts are cannabis rolled in cigar paper made from tobacco leaves.⁹⁴ Spliffs contain both cannabis and tobacco. Hand pipes are another common smoking device, which are often made of glass, clay, wood, or stone.⁹⁵ Water pipes work similarly to hand pipes, but incorporate water (e.g. bongs, bubblers).⁹⁵ Hookahs are a relatively uncommon method of cannabis consumption.⁹⁵

Vaporizing

Vaporizers are a more recent device for cannabis consumption. Vaporization is a process that occurs by heating cannabis to a temperature where cannabinoid oils (e.g. THC and CBD) are released but the cannabis does not combust.⁹⁵ Vaporizers minimize certain health risks associated with combustion, and reduce odors (in comparison to smoking).⁹⁵ There are a variety of vaporizers available. Portable vaporizers are comparable to e-cigarettes and are used more commonly than fixed devices. Fixed devices require an outlet power source and are usually more durable and larger. Many portable vaporizers use cannabis concentrates including butane hash oil (BHO) rather than flower.

“Dabbing” is another vaporization process for cannabis consumption. Dabbing is a form of vaporization in which cannabis concentrates are administered to a heated “nail,” creating vapor that the user then traps in a glass globe and inhales. Dabbing is a much more potent method to consume cannabis compared to other vaporizing methods or smoking.

Oral Delivery

Edibles

Edibles refer to any food or beverage that contains cannabis and consumed orally. The effects from drinking or eating cannabis are delayed compared to smoking or vaporizing methods, where cannabis enters the bloodstream immediately. Edibles must be digested and metabolized before they are absorbed into the bloodstream, and therefore take a longer time for users to feel effects. Individual metabolic rates also impact the timing of effects. Since cannabis is fat-soluble, edibles may be infused with ingredients high in fat, such olive oil or butter, which enable the extraction of cannabinoids. Edibles are typically made with concentrates that have high levels of THC;⁹⁵ However, edibles may be produced with cannabis flower.

Tinctures

Tinctures are a fast-acting liquid cannabis extract taken orally. Generally tinctures are alcohol-based meaning the cannabis is dissolved in alcohol; However, fat-soluble liquids, such as glycerol or vinegar can be used.⁹⁵ Tinctures require time to process through the liver, which reduces dosage control.⁹⁵

Ingestible Oils

Ingestible oils commonly come in tablet or pill form and are swallowed and digested by the user.⁹⁵ Options include but are not limited to effervescent tablets and capsules with concentrated oils. Effervescent tablets are a water-based cannabinoid delivery method in which the tablet is dissolved in a non-carbonated beverage prior to ingestion. Capsules are pre-filled with cannabis concentrate to specific doses.

Cannabis Concentrates

Kief

Kief is a cannabis concentrate consisting of the resin glands found on the trichomes of cannabis flower.⁹⁶ Trichomes are the fine outgrowths or appendages on the cannabis flower that produce cannabinoids, terpenes, and flavonoids.⁹⁶ Kief is also referred to as dry sift or pollen.

Hash

Hash is the oldest and most well-known cannabis concentrate, it is more potent than cannabis flower but less potent than butane hash oil. Hash or hashish may be produced from kief by compressing the resin into bricks. It remains popular among cannabis consumers worldwide.⁹⁷

Butane Hash Oil (BHO)

Butane hash oil is a potent concentrate that may be consumed through vaporization through a process called dabbing.⁹⁸ Dabs are concentrated doses of cannabis produced by extracting cannabinoids using solvents like butane. Butane extraction leaves behind a wax that varies in consistency (e.g. honeycomb, shatter).⁹⁹ Amateur production can be very dangerous and may result in poor quality oil, which may contain excessive amounts of residual solvents or contaminants that could be hazardous to consume.

CO2 Oil

CO2 extracted oil is a relatively new concentrate on the market. It is produced by extractors which use pressure and carbon dioxide to separate plant material. The CO2 extraction process is called supercritical fluid extraction and has been shown to be one of the most effective ways of reducing cannabis to its essential compounds.⁹⁸ CO2 oil is commonly vaporized in portable vaporizer pens via disposable cartridges containing a mixture of CO2 oil and polypropylene glycol giving the oil a liquid consistency.

*Note: This does not represent an exhaustive list of cannabis concentrates. More research is needed.

Trends in Youth Methods of Use

AIM: This section synthesizes the literature around trends in methods of use for cannabis consumption among youth.

Understanding youth cannabis use patterns are critical for evidence-based prevention efforts. This section examines methods of cannabis delivery, frequency of cannabis consumed, and types of cannabis product consumed by youth. Identified studies examine smoking/combustion, vaporization, and edible use methods, and included cannabis flower, butane hash oil (BHO), and edibles. Gaps in the literature exists around less common and newer use methods (e.g. dabbing).

This section also reviews prevalence rates and changes in youth methods of cannabis consumption over time. Health professionals should be aware that youth may use a spectrum of combustible and alternative cannabis products.¹⁰⁰ Among alternative products (non-smoked flower), both edibles and concentrates are rising in popularity among youth users.¹⁰⁰ This section is limited to trends in youth methods of consumption of cannabis products and only briefly discusses co-use use of nicotine and cannabis.

Methods

The search focused on prevalence of youth cannabis use and changes in methods of consumption over time. Literature reviews were collected from 2013-September 2018. Observational studies were collected from 2014-September 2018. One case-report study was included in this section that reported on an instance of lung injury from inhalation of BHO in an 18-year-old female.¹⁰¹ Reviews on polysubstance use outside of tobacco and cannabis were excluded from this section [see subsection: Youth Cannabis Co-use Trends].

Findings

Most literature identified in this section were observation studies with cross-sectional data collected from survey responses. The included literature reviews focused on methods of delivery and trends in cannabis products and user characteristics.

Five literature reviews were identified.^{102–106} A variety of outcomes were assessed, including: trends in cannabis concentrate use; trends in vape-pen use; edibles benefits and risks; associated health risks of BHO inhalation and amateur production; polyuse of different cannabis products; frequency of use; and sociodemographic information.

Thirteen studies were identified.^{50,63,111–113,82,93,100,101,107–110} Five studies were cross-sectional and identified prevalence rates of youth cannabis use, sociodemographic correlates of use, poly-use of cannabis products, and associations between legal cannabis policy provisions and youth consumption of cannabis.^{50,93,100,107,113} Two studies focused exclusively on youth edible use.^{82,108} Three studies focused exclusively on butane hash oil (BHO), insights into use of BHO, amateur production techniques, and user characteristics.^{109,112,114} Two studies identified vaporization trends, particularly e-cigarette use to vaporize cannabis among college students,¹¹¹ and predictors of use.¹¹⁰ The final observational study assessed youth perceptions of harm and driving under the influence.⁶³ One case-report study was identified.¹⁰¹ Anderson et al. 2019 reported on a previously healthy 18-year-old female that was admitted to the emergency department with shortness of breath for three to four days after BHO inhalation via dabbing.¹⁰¹

Among the observational studies, samples varied across the U.S., Canada, and Australia. Samples in this section included: Colorado high school students; Ontario high school students; high school students from Victoria, Australia; Los Angeles County 10th graders; and U.S. nationally representative samples of youth.^{50,93,100,107,113} Cohorts varied and included: recreational users, heavy users, occasional users, regular users, ever-users (used cannabis once in their lifetime), abstaining users, and non-cannabis users.^{50,93,100} All observational study sample sizes were in the thousands, with the largest sample including (n=181,870).¹⁰⁹

National Prevalence of Youth Cannabis Use

After alcohol, cannabis is the most commonly used substance among youth. As with many illicit substances, cannabis use is more common among older youth (ages 15-18) than younger youth (ages 12-14).¹⁰⁷ The National Institute of Drug Abuse (NIDA) reported that in 2018, 5.6% of 8th graders, 16.7% of 10th graders, and 22.2% of 12th graders reported cannabis use in the last month.¹¹⁵ Rates are higher in Massachusetts than the national average [See Chart V.B.3. MA High Schoolers Current Cannabis Use by Grade, YRBS 2007-2017].

Results from the 2018 Monitoring the Future (MTF) showed that youth cannabis use peaked in 1996/97 (depending on grade), decreased through 2007/08, increased through 2010-2013, decreased and held steady among 8th graders, decreased among 10th graders then increased in 2017 and 2018, decreased among 12th graders until 2015 then increased until 2017, and decreased in 2018.⁶⁸ Unlike tobacco or alcohol use, cannabis use rates among 12th graders is higher than it was ten years ago.⁶⁸

Cannabis flower is consistently found to be the most common cannabis product used by youth with smoking as the primary use method.^{50,93,100,102,105,107,116} In a sample of 10th graders, Peters et al. 2018 found that use prevalence was highest for smoked cannabis followed by edibles and then vaporized cannabis; results were consistent among ever-users and past 30-day users; the majority of users (61.7%) reported using multiple delivery methods.¹⁰⁰

Sociodemographic correlates of cannabis use vary. Several studies reported prevalence of cannabis use via alternative delivery methods is increasing but unequally among sociodemographic groups.^{50,68,104} Peter et al. 2018 found that low socioeconomic status was associated with higher prevalence rates of cannabis use in both ever-users and past 30-day users for combustion and edibles but not vaporization.¹⁰⁰ Johnson et al. 2015 found a higher prevalence of cannabis use among Black, Hispanic, American Indian/Alaska Native, and multi-racial youth, and lower prevalence among Asians compared to Whites.¹¹³ In regard to gender, the historic gap where males had higher use rates than females is closing or has closed.¹¹³ Peters et al. 2018 found males had higher prevalence of ever-use for vaporizing cannabis whereas females had higher prevalence of ever-use for edibles and smoking.¹⁰⁰

Edibles are defined as any food product that contains cannabis extract. In recent years edibles have grown in popularity and proven lucrative in the legalized market for adult-use and medicinal cannabis.¹⁰⁴ Edibles are often perceived as a discreet way of attaining cannabis' effects without exposure to the harms from combustion.¹⁰⁴ Where the onset of effects from inhalation occur almost immediately, edible's (ingested cannabis) effects are lagged, therefore dosing is more challenging and risk of over-consumption is increased. Barrus et al. 2016 reported that some consumers are unaware of the delayed onset of effects and may consume larger quantities than intended resulting in adverse effects.¹⁰⁴

The popularity of edibles is notable in states that have legalized adult-use or medicinal cannabis.¹⁰⁴ Barrus et al. 2016 notes that the use of edibles is likely underestimated when examining purchase data as direct purchases of cannabinoid-infused oil or cannabis used to make homemade edibles are not tracked.¹⁰⁴

No national estimates of youth edible use were identified. Johnson et al. 2016 used a 2013 survey of Colorado high schoolers (n= 25,197) to assess the prevalence of modes of cannabis consumption among youth. Findings from this study indicate that 15% youth cannabis users usually used an alternative cannabis delivery method(s) rather than smoking, 5% of respondents reported that their usual mode of consumption was edible ingestion.⁹³ Friese et al. 2017 analyzed California Healthy Kids Survey data collected in one Northern California school district and found that among lifetime cannabis users, 72% reported consuming edibles and 82% of past 30-day cannabis users reported ever using edibles.¹⁰⁸ Edible users also reported earlier age of cannabis use initiation and more frequent attempts to cease cannabis use.¹⁰⁸ Peters et al. 2018 found that in a sample of Los Angeles high school students, 21.3% reported using an edible at least one time (n=3,177).¹⁰⁰ In a San Francisco focus group study about edible use, respondents (15 to 17-year-olds) indicated edibles could be purchased at school from students who produced their own or who were selling edibles obtained from a store.⁸²

It is uncommon among youth to use edibles as their primary method of cannabis consumption. Peters et al. 2018 reported that among 10th grade participants who reported ever using cannabis, 61.7% used multiple administration methods.¹⁰⁰ Smoking cannabis flower and consuming edibles were the most common methods of consumption.¹⁰⁰ All studies identified for this section that measured prevalence for methods of use, reported that edible use is considerably higher among heavy cannabis users than moderate users and females reported higher rates of lifetime edible use.¹⁰⁰

Youth perceptions of edible consumption differ from perceptions of other methods of use and between cohorts. Friese et al. 2017 reported that edible users and non-users differed in their perceptions of risk and non-edible users perceived edible use as very risky.¹⁰⁸ Johnson et al. 2016 also found that Coloradan youth users who perceived cannabis as more harmful were more likely to use edibles, perhaps suggesting that these youth saw smoking as more risky than edible consumption.⁹³

Butane Hash Oil (BHO): Dabbing

Butane hash oil is a potent concentrate that can be vaporized through a process called dabbing. Dabs are concentrated doses of cannabis made by extracting the cannabinoids using solvents, such as butane (butane is used in production of BHO rather than during user administration and mostly eliminated from the product before use).¹⁰⁶ The term dabbing refers to the process used to consume BHO. The dabbing process commonly consists of a user placing a hollow titanium cylinder referred to as a “nail” into the open end of a modified water pipe referred to as a “rig,” the “nail” is heated by a blowtorch to a high temperature, quickly emitting a small amount of vaporized BHO.¹⁰⁶ Users of BHO typically inhale their entire amount in a single breath, administering very high quantities of THC in one breath rather than an extended period (e.g. multiple inhalations of a joint).

Some cannabis users manufacture BHO on their own through a process known as “blasting.”¹⁰⁶ Amateur blasting can lead to increased impurities in the product from inadequate purging of butane during production.¹⁰⁶ Fire is another risk associated with amateur production. Amateur blasting techniques may result in volatile butane pooling in confined spaces and ignite when exposed to a spark.¹¹² Fires, explosions, and severe burns have been linked to home production of BHO.¹⁰⁶

Stogner et al. 2015 noted a lack of scientific literature around BHO, which can have THC concentrations of 80% or higher.¹⁰⁶ Users of more potent cannabis may experience higher levels of harms. For example there is an association between high potency cannabis and psychosis, although causality is unknown.¹⁰⁹ Dabbing requires a high-temperature blowtorch to heat the nail. Temperatures can range between 900-1075°F. At extremely high temperatures, terpenes (i.e. aromatic cannabis oils) degrade into byproducts including carcinogens and lung irritants (e.g. methacrolein, benzene).¹⁰¹ Inhalation of high levels of methacrolein and benzene can lead to acute respiratory failure. For example, cases of severe pneumonitis have been reported after inhalation of BHO, which required users to be hospitalized.¹⁰¹

Chan et al. 2017 examined the characteristics of BHO users and found that mental health problems and other illicit substance use were associated with use of BHO (n=5,922).¹⁰⁹ Self-reported mental health problems included anxiety and depression, and users were also more likely to have lower education levels.¹⁰⁹ BHO users reported stronger negative effects and less positive effects when using BHO compared to cannabis flower.¹⁰⁹ However, some users may believe dabbing is safer than smoking cannabis flower as they are inhaling vapor and not smoke from burned cannabis.¹⁰¹

There are major gaps in research on youth dabbing behaviors. Existing observational research into dabbing BHO predominantly report on young adults (ages 18-24). Scientific literature on youth BHO use identified in this section also primarily reports on BHO vaporization through hand-held vaporizers (i.e. e-cigarettes).

Vaping Cannabis

E-cigarettes are pen sized handheld vaporizers that heat liquid or solid preparations via atomizers (heating coils) to allow a user to inhale psychoactive aerosols (e.g. nicotine, THC).⁵⁰ E-cigarette use has reached epidemic proportions. In 2018, the FDA reported that over three million middle and high school students were current e-cigarette users.¹¹⁷ E-cigarettes were originally intended to vaporize tobacco products, in particular, a liquid mixture known as “e-juice.” E-juice is generally a compound of water, food grade flavoring, a choice of nicotine dosage, and propylene glycol or vegetable glycerin. Recently, more technologically advanced e-cigarettes have emerged enabling users to vape cannabis products, including: ground cannabis flower, BHO, and other cannabis concentrates.¹⁰³ Cannabis e-juice (cE-juice) generally consists of BHO and diluted medical grade propylene glycol.¹⁰³

Johnson et al. 2016 found that among Colorado high schoolers reporting past 30-day cannabis use, 6.2% reported vaporizing as their usual mode of consumption.⁹³ Males, Whites, Asians and 12th graders were more likely to report vaporizing cannabis in this sample.⁹³ In a different survey (2014) of Connecticut high schoolers current cannabis users, 5.4% reported vaporizing cannabis using an e-cigarette.¹¹⁰ Young adults appear to use e-cigarettes at higher rates than high schoolers.¹¹¹

One driver of e-cigarette use is the belief that it is safer method of consumption than smoking cigarettes. This perception of low risk of harm seems to have transferred to vaping cannabis as well. Johnson et al. 2016's results suggest that youth may be using vaporizers as a way to reduce the harm associated with smoking cannabis.⁹³ Additionally, e-cigarette vaporization reduces odor and devices are easily concealed compared to combustion. Cannabis users can discretely vape deodorized cannabis extracts and decrease chance of detection.¹⁰³

Survey responses from the 2017 MTF were the first national estimates of youth cannabis vaping. Results indicated that 10% of 12th graders, 8% of 10th graders, and 3% of 8th graders vaped cannabis in the past year.¹¹⁸ Richard Miech, the Principal Investigator of the study, states that vaping has progressed well beyond a cigarette alternative.¹¹⁹

Inconsistencies and Research Gaps

Overall, identified studies in this section had good external validity and reported consistent prevalence rates of youth cannabis use. Current research in youth methods of use for cannabis consumption is considerably lacking, particularly in youth ages 12-14 and for non-smoking consumption methods.

Inconsistencies were found in reported perceptions of harm among males and females regarding alternative cannabis delivery methods. Important limitations included: sample bias and uncontrolled confounding variables. Additionally, all prevalence rates were calculated from self-reported survey responses. Identified gaps in scientific literature include youth BHO dabbing prevalence and behavior. Research gaps led to sample-level characteristic inconsistencies including different age samples and variation in use patterns.

Overview: Patterns of Use

Co-Use vs. Polysubstance Use

Polysubstance use is defined as the act of using three or more psychoactive substances in a defined period of time; co-use is defined as the use of two substances. Polysubstance dependence is not the same as polysubstance use. A person with polysubstance dependence is an individual diagnosed with a psychological addiction to being in an intoxicated state without a preference for one particular substance (DSM-5).

Complementary and Substitution Effects

Complementary and substitution are terms used to categorize patterns of co- or poly-substance use. When an individual uses a substance in conjunction with another, and/or to enhance the effects of another, they are using them as “complements.” Therefore, increased use in one substance will increase use of another. In contrast, if an individual uses one substance in place of another, they are using them as “substitutes.” If substances act as substitutes, increased use of one substance will decrease use of another.

Cannabis and Tobacco

Cannabis and tobacco are among the most widely used psychoactive substances by youth and are often used as complements. Among U.S. youth, co-use of cannabis and tobacco is more prevalent than tobacco-only or cannabis-only use.¹²⁰

Cannabis and Alcohol

Alcohol is the most widely used psychoactive substance among youth. Alcohol and cannabis appear to be used as both substitutes and complements among youth, with findings diverging between studies.¹²¹ However, the majority of youth reporting both alcohol and cannabis use in a National Alcohol Survey (2005, 2010), reported having used the two substances simultaneously (“co-use”).¹²² Co-use is associated with worse outcomes than using either substance alone.¹²²

Cannabis and Other Substances

The scientific literature lacks research about the co-use of cannabis and other substances including stimulants, depressants, narcotics, and inhalants. Among youth, rates of using other substances are decreasing and the misuse of narcotics decreased significantly over the last five years.⁶⁸ The relationship is important to assess because daily use of cannabis in youth is associated with increased odds of using “other substances” and development of a substance use disorders as an adult.¹²³

Youth Cannabis Co-use Trends

AIM: This section synthesizes and builds upon previous literature reviews to examine trends in youth polysubstance use of cannabis and other psychoactive substances.

In research, the youth (“adolescent”) cohort usually includes individuals aged 12-18 years-old. Polysubstance use is defined as the act of using three or more psychoactive substance in a defined period of time. Complementary and substitution are terms used to categorize patterns of substance use. When use of one substance increases use of another substance, they are “complements.” When an individual uses a substance to replace or instead of another substance, they are using them as “substitutes.”

This section reviews the scientific literature assessing the trends in substitution and complementary substance use of cannabis and other psychoactive substances among youth. This section focuses primarily on youth use of cannabis, tobacco, and alcohol. Use of cannabis and other illicit substances is not well researched in youth populations and represents a gap in the scientific literature.

This section is limited to youth trends in substance use and only briefly discusses trends in young adults ages 18-25 (“emerging adults”). Youth polysubstance use is associated with an increased risk of developing substance use disorders in adulthood. There is also concern about the long-term health effects of polysubstance use on cognitive functioning and working memory; However, this area of research is outside the scope of this report and will not be discussed further.

Methods

The search focused on the trends associated with youth co- or poly-substance use of cannabis and other psychoactive substances. Other psychoactive substances included: tobacco, alcohol, stimulants, depressants, narcotics, and inhalants. Literature reviews were collected from 2011-June 2016. Observational studies were collected from 2015-September 2018. This report’s section on youth co-use of cannabis and alcohol follows and extends Subbaraman et al.’s 2016 systematic literature review, which includes 39 studies between 1994-2015.¹²¹ The section on use of cannabis and tobacco extends Ramo et al.’s 2012 review, which included 163 articles published between 1999-2009.¹²⁴ Observational studies conducted prior to Colorado and Washington’s adult-use cannabis legalization in 2012 were excluded due to the potential effects these policies have on substitution and complementary substance use.

Findings

The majority of scientific literature included in this report were observation studies with cross-sectional survey data. The literature reviews focused on analyzing patterns of co- and poly-substance use and implications of drug policy reform.

Four literature reviews were identified.^{121,124–126} One study was a systematic review¹²⁴ and three were nonsystematic reviews.^{121,125,126} Outcomes assessed included: age of onset, psychosis spectrum, correlates and consequences of co-use, and the associations of changing cannabis legislation and how individuals co-use substances.^{121,124–126} One study reviewed the impacts of changing cannabis policies on substitution and complementary alcohol use.¹²⁵

Twelve observational studies were identified.^{109,123,134,135,126–133} Five studies focused on co-use of cannabis and tobacco.^{126,129–131,135} Three studies focused on co-use of cannabis and alcohol.^{132,133,135} Two studies focused on co-use of cannabis and other illicit substances; other illicit substance included: opiates, cocaine, stimulants, hallucinogens, inhalants, and sleep medication.^{123,134} Two studies focused on concurrent polysubstance use of cannabis, tobacco, and alcohol.^{127,128}

Samples varied and included: recreational cannabis users, medicinal cannabis users, co-users of cannabis and alcohol,^{132,133} co-users of cannabis and tobacco,^{126,129–131} co-users of cannabis and other illicit substances, and lastly polysubstance (three or more substances) users.^{123,134} All samples were taken from the U.S. and/or Canada. Most sample sizes were in the thousands with the largest including (n=176,245) participants.¹²⁰ Two sample sizes were under 1,000 participants.^{127,133}

More research is also needed on cannabis and alcohol co-use patterns in youth. Alcohol and cannabis co-use is critical to monitor as co-users are at a higher risk for negative outcomes including more substance use, greater risk of substance use disorder, lower rates of high school completion, among other negative outcomes compared to alcohol only use.^{122,135}

Co-use of alcohol and cannabis occurs among youth, but risk and protective factors are not yet clear. A NSDUH sample from 2011-2014 found that cannabis and alcohol co-users made up approximately 13% of youth. For comparison 38% reported alcohol only use and 10% reported cannabis only use.¹³⁵ Cannabis and alcohol co-use were more likely to be male and African American.¹³⁵ In Monitoring the Future (MTF), (1976-2016), Patrick et al. 2018 found that among youth who used alcohol and/or cannabis in the past-year, 32.8% reported simultaneous alcohol and cannabis use (11.2% reported binge drinking and cannabis use).¹³² Simultaneous alcohol and cannabis users were associated with a higher likelihood of truancy (unexcused absence), evenings out, and use of other illicit substances.¹³² Simultaneous users were more likely to be White than either Black or Hispanic in this sample.¹³²

Whether alcohol and cannabis are used as substitutes or complements is often debated and the current literature appears mixed. In a systematic review of the literature, Subbaraman 2016 found mixed results as to whether youth should complementary or substitution effects with alcohol and cannabis.¹²¹ Another review found evidence of both substitution and complementary effects associated with cannabis policy changes.¹²⁵

In more recent research, a MTF study found evidence of complementary use.¹³² In contrast, O'Hara et al. 2016 found evidence of substitution effects.^{125,133} Findings remain inconclusive and additional research is needed.

Cannabis and Tobacco

More research is needed to elucidate the relationship between cannabis and tobacco use in youth. Among 8th, 10th, and 12th graders, lifetime, 30-day (“current”), and daily cigarette use are at historic lows yet cannabis use has not followed the same linear decline.¹³⁶ Cannabis and tobacco co-use is of concern because research finds that youth co-users report worse outcomes than either single substance-user (e.g. more substance use, greater psychological symptoms, and behavior problems).^{124,135}

In NSDUH, use of both cannabis and tobacco (may or may not be simultaneous) did not increase among youth from 2005 to 2014, despite an increase in cannabis-only use and a decline in tobacco-only use.¹²⁰ However use of cannabis and tobacco was more prevalent than tobacco-only or cannabis-only users, suggesting that many youth users are using both substances.¹²⁰ A different sample from 2011-2014 found that cannabis and cigarette users made up approximately 5% of current youth substance users, and were more likely to be male.¹³⁵ This sample found no differences between Black, Hispanic, or White cannabis and tobacco concurrent (not necessarily simultaneous) user rates.¹³⁵ In contrast, a 2012 systematic review found that cannabis and tobacco was greater among Black cohorts.¹²⁴ More research is needed around risk and protective factors of tobacco and cannabis co-use.

Current research suggests that tobacco and cannabis use is more common in young adults compared to other age groups.¹²⁴ Young adults reported using both tobacco and cannabis for a number of reasons including: cannabis use increased the urge to use tobacco, tobacco use increased the urge to use cannabis, and the act of smoking cigarettes helped cope with cannabis urges.¹²⁹ Some co-users (31%) reported tobacco use as a means to prolong and sustain cannabis' effects.¹²⁹ The most common reasons for co-use of cannabis and tobacco reported were: synergistic effects, complementary use, using one to reduce the other's use, co-administration (i.e. blunts or spliffs) and experimentation.¹²⁹ From 2005-2014, co-use was associated with higher prevalence of past-year cannabis dependence.¹²⁰

Wang et al. 2016 found that there was a higher proportion of cannabis and tobacco co-users in states with legal medical cannabis compared to states without medical use cannabis, and found that the odds of co-use were highest among youth compared to other age groups.¹³¹

Research around cannabis and other substance co-use in youth lacks, especially in comparison to research regarding single substance use. For example, MTF results indicate that the use of inhalants (e.g. sniffing glue, gases or sprays) among 8th graders is increasing and are more common among younger youth. Johnston et al., 2018 reported that perceptions of risk from using inhalants have steadily been decreasing among youth, and in from 2016 to 2017 the percent of 8th grade students who had ever used inhalants in their lifetime increased from 7.7 to 8.9%, however this follows a downward trend from 1994.¹³⁷ Heroin use and misuse of prescription opioids has been declining among youth but the rate of decline is slowing.⁶⁸

Knowledge regarding cannabis and other substances is still developing. Palamar et al. 2015 examined whether reasons for recent cannabis use are associated with other illicit substances including: crack, hallucinogens other than LSD, and amphetamine/stimulants and found using “to experiment” decreased the likelihood of reporting use of other substances; using cannabis for “insight” increased the likelihood for use of hallucinogens other than LSD and use due to “boredom” increased the odds for reporting use of cocaine and hallucinogens.¹³⁴

Use of cannabis has been associated with other substance use in youth and emerging adults; Tzilos et al., 2014 examined the relationship between cannabis use frequency and the use of six other substance classes including: cocaine, opiates, stimulants, hallucinogens, inhalants, and sleep medications.¹²³ Tzilos et al. 2014 found that daily cannabis use was associated with an increase in the expected odds of opiate, cocaine, stimulant, hallucinogen, inhalant, and tobacco use.¹²³

Several studies found associations between polysubstance use in youth, the psychosis spectrum, and increased odds of substance use disorders in adulthood.^{127,128,138} The likelihood of developing substance use disorders in adulthood increased with earlier age of cannabis initiation.¹³⁸ Cannabis use by itself was not associated with increased odds of a psychosis spectrum classification.¹²⁸ Polysubstance use of cannabis, tobacco, and alcohol in youth was associated with increased odds of psychosis spectrum classification.¹²⁸

VIII. Research Gaps

After a comprehensive review of the state of science regarding youth cannabis use, the Cannabis Control Commission’s Research Department, with consultation and collaboration with varying researchers, highlight the following gaps in our collective knowledge that should be addressed in order to guide the development of evidence-based policy decisions.

Consideration 1: Impacts may be lagged

- Provided the recency of adult-use cannabis policies, research has not yet fully assessed their impact on youth cannabis-related perceptions or use pattern changes, such as changes to product types/methods used and changes to potency of products used.
[See Section VI. Cannabis Legalization and Youth Use Overview]
 - More research with extended follow-up periods is needed to assess potentially lagged impacts of legalization.
- Any changes to use of highly potent products and consumption methods (e.g. dabbing) should be monitored.
[See Section VII. Literature Reviews subsection Trends in Youth Methods of Use]

Consideration 2: Youth will not all be affected equally

- Research with individual-level data is needed.
- Research on cohorts that may be more affected by cannabis policy changes is needed (e.g. youth seeing treatment for substance use disorders; youth who work; youth in the juvenile justice system).
[See Section VI. Cannabis Legalization and Youth Use Overview]
- More specific outcomes should be assessed among youth cohorts, including the frequency of use, co- or poly-substance use, changes to potency of products used, and changes to method(s) of consumption.
[See Section VII. Literature Reviews subsections Trends in Youth Methods of Use, Youth Cannabis Co-use Trends]

Consideration 3: Cannabis use occurs in context

- Research that examines localized impact(s) of policy and regulatory environments, including state, municipality, and neighborhood at the individual-level is needed.
 - For example, research should consider the impact of cannabis banned in a youth’s municipality and the density of retail stores in their proximity (i.e. municipality, neighborhood, etc.).
[See Section VI. Cannabis Legalization and Youth Use Overview]

- Research is needed on cannabis and other substance use behaviors, including any complementary and/or substitution effects.
[See Section VII. Literature Reviews subsection Youth Cannabis Co-use Trends]
- National level research should incorporate and/or adjust for cannabis policy and regulation heterogeneity. This would include understanding the regulatory and implementation period(s) specific to the timeframe of the stud.
[See Section VI. Cannabis Legalization and Youth Use Overview]
- Additional research on best practices for youth cannabis use prevention and interventions efficacy is needed (e.g. SBIRT).
[See Section IV. Data Sources and Limitations]

IX. Public Health Framework

There are inherent challenges to legalizing and regulating a formerly illicit substance.¹³⁹ Any implementation and regulation of cannabis policy(s) requires careful consideration to potential public health effects with special attention to vulnerable cohorts, such as youth. Legalizing and regulating substances with dependence potential are often in juxtaposition to public health policy approaches since the minority of very heavy users (dependent users) account for the majority of consumption, which generates the greatest tax revenue¹⁴⁰ as evidenced by the tobacco and alcohol industries.⁷ However, states can proactively implement evidence-based processes to counter adverse public health outcomes.

The public health prevention model is an inclusive model targeting the overall health of the public at large rather than an individualized or small group prevention model. Nurse and Edmondson-Jones 2007 discuss the importance of a framework in public health delivery.¹⁴¹ Authors state that a framework assists in providing shape, structure, clarity of purpose, and direction for a combination of constructs to improve the health of a population, which includes a complex combination of skills, methods, relationships, and interactions.¹⁴¹ Public health frameworks work within varying systems that surround an individual and affect individuals' behaviors, aiming to impact his/her choice(s) to partake in a behavior.¹⁴¹⁻¹⁴⁴

Key Standards of Public Health

The 10 key standards of public health¹⁴¹

- Surveillance and assessment of the population's health and well-being;
- Promoting and protecting the population's health and well-being;
- Developing quality and risk management within an evaluative culture;
- Collaborative working for health;
- Developing health programs and services and reducing inequalities;
- Policy and strategy development and implementation;
- Working with and for communities;
- Strategic leadership for health;
- Research and development; and
- Ethically managing self, people, and others.

*Note: Highlighted in green are the standards of public health incorporated into Massachusetts's cannabis regulations and Public Awareness Campaign, More About Marijuana.

For the prevention of disease, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), published a framework outlining critical elements, which includes:

- Strong public health fundamentals;

- High-impact intervention; and
- Sound health policies.

This public health framework is routinely applied to varying public health and public safety issues. In this framework, strong public health fundamentals refer to surveillance, detection, and investigation of the issue, such as problematic youth cannabis use and associated behaviors. For the Commonwealth, this would occur at both the local and state levels. High-impact interventions refer to focused efforts to prevent youth cannabis use within a short timeframe, such as identifying and validating new tools for prevention and expediting the broad use of validated interventions to youth cannabis use.

Sound health policies refers to developing and advancing policies to prevent, detect, and control rates of youth cannabis use, which include: ensuring sound scientific data to support evidence-based policies, working with local state and local public health and public safety departments to both prevent, control, and respond to potential increases in youth cannabis use. These policy efforts are aimed at helping community leaders improve local response and readiness, and educating the public.¹⁴⁵

Commonwealth of Massachusetts: Regulations and Public Health

In a recent article, Dr. Ghosh and colleagues at the Colorado Department of Public Health present a framework for cannabis legalization built on the core functions of public health, including: (1) Assessing health issues through monitoring and investigation (“Assessment”), (2) Developing policy through education and community partnerships (“Policy Development”), and (3) Providing assurance through enforcement, a competent workforce, and evaluation (“Assurance”). [See Figure 1. Public Health Framework for Legalized Cannabis: Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment, 2015]

Figure 1. Public Health Framework for Legalized Cannabis: Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment, 2015.

The following section outlines the processes the Commonwealth of Massachusetts has implemented regarding each domain under the public health framework for legalized cannabis developed by the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment.

Assessment

In this framework, assessment refers to monitoring, investigating, and providing education around cannabis use and the health effects of use.

1) Research

In accordance with c.55 section 17 (a) and (b), the Commission is monitoring the following outcomes in the Commonwealth, which are direct or indirect health and public health outcomes: (1) Patterns of use; (2) Methods of consumption; (3) Sources of purchase; (4) General perceptions of marijuana; (5) Incidents of impaired driving; (6) Hospitalization and use of other health care services related to marijuana use; (7)

Financial impacts on the state healthcare system of hospitalizations related to marijuana; (8) Economic and fiscal impacts for state and local governments including the impact of legalization on the production and distribution of marijuana in the illicit market and the costs and benefits to state and local revenue; (9) Ownership and employment trends in the marijuana industry examining participation by racial, ethnic and socioeconomic subgroups, including identification of barriers to participation in the industry; (10) Expansion or contraction of the illicit marketplace and the expansion or contraction of the legal marketplace, including estimates and comparisons of pricing and product availability in both markets; (11) Incidents of discipline in schools, including suspensions or expulsions, resulting from marijuana use or possession of marijuana or marijuana products; and (12) Civil penalties, arrests, prosecutions, incarcerations and sanctions imposed for violations of chapter 94C for possession, distribution or trafficking of marijuana or marijuana products, including the age, race, gender, country of origin, state geographic region and average sanctions of the persons charged. [See Appendix V. Research Agenda for full Chapter 55 Research Agenda]

Additionally, the research agenda includes a report of the state of the science around identifying a quantifiable level of marijuana-induced impairment of motor vehicle operation, which was included in the baseline assessment of impaired driving.

2) Public Awareness Campaign

The Commission has also created an evidence-based public awareness campaign targeted at a general audience and a campaign specific to parents. These campaigns aim educate the public about cannabis, including a discussion of health effects and its unique harms to youth. See MoreAboutMJ.org for campaign materials. [See Appendix VI: Public Awareness Campaigns for additional information about Massachusetts’s Public Awareness Campaign, including pre/post survey assessment of youth-related topics and focus group findings from pre-implementation]

Policy Development

1) Public Health in Policy/Regulations

In this framework, policy development refers to the development of policies and regulations to protect the public’s health and safety.

As outlined in c.55 section 76, Massachusetts legislators ensured there were both public health and public safety advocates in the cannabis regulatory agency: “There shall be a Massachusetts cannabis control commission which shall consist of 5 commissioners: 1 of whom shall be appointed by the governor and shall have a background in public health, mental health, substance use or toxicology: 1 of whom shall be appointed by the attorney general and shall have a background in public safety.” Commissioners with a background in public health and public safety have been instrumental in regulating the nascent industry with focus on public health and safety.

Massachusetts policymakers and regulators implemented varying public health policy development strategies as outlined in Appendix VII: Public Health and Prevention in Regulations, as of July 2019. [See Table VII.1., Table VII.2.]

Assurance

1) Enforcement

In this framework, assurance refers to the enforcement of public health regulations, such as inspections to ensure products in the legal marketplace are free from contaminants, packaged in a child-resistant packaging, not diverted to minors, and properly labeled.

Massachusetts policymakers and regulators implemented varying public health assurance strategies as outlined in Appendix VII: Public Health and Prevention. [See Table VII.1.].

2) Ensure Competent Workforce

Under Cannabis Control Commission regulations, Massachusetts requires all Marijuana Establishment Agents to complete at least 8-hours of annual Responsible Vendor Training, which includes varying mandated topics such as: (1) Effects of cannabis on the human body; (2) Preventing diversion and sales to minors; (3) Seed-to-sale tracking compliance; and (4) Operating in accordance with state policies, regulations, and local rules.

X. Policy Considerations for the Commonwealth

Based on a comprehensive review of the scope of the issue of youth and cannabis use, the Cannabis Control Commission's Research Department, in consultation and collaboration with varying Massachusetts researchers and our internal departments, offer the following considerations to the Commonwealth regarding youth and cannabis use.

Prevention

Education about cannabis use and effects in youth continues to be crucial to mitigate potential adverse effects, including: increased and problematic use, earlier initiation of use, and formulating perceptions of cannabis that are not supported by scientific evidence (e.g. common misperceptions that cannabis is harmless or that cannabis increases ability to concentrate on behaviors such as driving), as well as knowledge of Massachusetts policies and provisions (e.g. legal age to purchase cannabis in a licensed retail store).

Data assessed in this report suggest that risky behaviors co-occur. It may be more effective if prevention mechanisms, including cannabis prevention, be included within prevention mechanisms and frameworks of other common associated risk behaviors in youth, such as binge drinking, driving after substance use, texting while driving, etc. Similarly, facilitating and strengthening relevant protective factors, such as adult support, should be encouraged.

Consideration 1: Cannabis prevention efforts should be broadly integrated into other evidence-based prevention mechanisms.

[See V. Baseline Data subsection, Cannabis Policy and Youth Substance Use Behaviors: Table V.F.1, Table V.G.1]

Consideration 2: The Massachusetts Cannabis Control Commission, in collaboration with relevant Massachusetts state agencies, could consider continuing the Public Awareness Campaign, with a continued focus on youth prevention and harm mitigation with revenue raised by cannabis excise taxes.

[See Section IX: Public Health Framework and Appendix VI: Public Awareness Campaigns]

Data Collection and Monitoring

Monitoring youth cannabis use using reliable, systematic data is essential to assess changes in trends over time. The Commonwealth and its relevant agencies could work collaboratively with researchers to define a priority research agenda and consistent data measures to monitor youth use systematically in Massachusetts. Given the varying data collection mechanisms implemented across the Commonwealth and its agencies, the state could add measures to these surveillance systems to more accurately assess types, methods, frequency, patterns of cannabis use occurring among youth cohorts as well as changes in social norms.

Consideration 1: The Commonwealth and its relevant agencies could work with the health care system, school health systems, and researchers to monitor the rates of cannabis use disorder and youth presenting to any health care setting (school system e.g. school nurse, health care system e.g. emergency room, primary care office) with acute cannabis use symptoms or related cannabis use health concerns. As part of this collaboration, foci could extend to securing ongoing surveillance measurements by the Commonwealth, including:

- Adding measures to varying ongoing data collection mechanisms in the Commonwealth;
[See Consideration 3 below]
- Systemically collecting both cannabis-related incidents at school and CRAFFT scores, delineated by type/category of substance (i.e. alcohol/other Central Nervous System (CNS) Depressants, CNS Stimulants, Narcotics, Cannabis, Inhalants);
[See Section IV: Data Sources and Limitations]
- Systematically coding of Internal Classification of Diseases (ICD) ICD-9 and ICD-10 codes in health care settings, especially related to all child exposures; and
- Systematically coding Poison Control Center data especially related to youth cannabis exposures.

Consideration 2: The Cannabis Control Commission could collaborate with the Massachusetts Department of Elementary and Secondary Education (DESE) to assess:

- Youth receiving disciplinary action for cannabis-related incidents at school.
[See Section IV. Data Sources and Limitations]

Consideration 3: The Commonwealth could add measures to the following systematic data collection mechanisms:

- Pregnancy Risk Assessment Monitoring System related to assess:
 - Cannabis exposures and perceived risk/social norms of cannabis use during pregnancy, including:
 - Whether mother was exposed to any cannabis by consuming or second-hand exposure (i.e. did mother use cannabis 3-months prior to getting pregnant, did mother use any cannabis product while pregnant, frequency of cannabis use while pregnant, partner use of cannabis during pregnancy, proximity of partner's cannabis use to pregnant mother etc.); and

- Perceived social norms of cannabis use during pregnancy (i.e. how risky is it for mothers to use any cannabis products during pregnancy etc.).
 - Cannabis exposures and perceived risk/social norms of cannabis use while breastfeeding:
 - Whether mother was exposed to any cannabis by consuming or second-hand exposure (i.e. did mother use cannabis product while breastfeeding, frequency of cannabis use while breastfeeding, time between last cannabis consumption and breastfeeding, partner use of cannabis during breastfeeding stage, proximity of partner's cannabis use to breastfeeding mother etc.); and
 - Perceived social norms of cannabis use while breastfeeding (i.e. how risky is it for mothers to use any cannabis products while breastfeeding etc.).

[See Appendix VI: Public Awareness Campaigns: Table VI.2]
- Massachusetts Youth Risk Behavior Surveillance System (YRBS) and Massachusetts Health Youth Survey to assess:
 - Method(s) of cannabis consumption in the past 30-days (e.g. smoke, eat, drink, vaporize, dab, other methods of consumption);
[See Section VII: Literature Reviews subsection Trends in Youth Methods of Use]
 - Preferred method(s) of cannabis consumption (e.g. smoke, eat, drink, vaporize, dab, other methods of consumption);
[See Section VII: Literature Reviews subsection Trends in Youth Methods of Use]
 - How youth purchased cannabis consumed in the past 30-days (i.e. friend or relative who legally purchased from a medical marijuana dispensary or retail store dispensary, friend or relative who cultivated marijuana legally at home, purchased from the illicit market, received from friend or relative with unknown source of purchase etc.).
[See Section VII: Literature Reviews subsection Sources of Purchase]
 - Perceived social norms of marijuana use by friends and peers your age (i.e. how often do people you know [e.g. friends, peers] use marijuana in the past 30-days);
[See Section VII: Literature Reviews subsections: Perception of

Friend Approval; Disapproval of Peer Use]

- Past 30-day riding with a driver who had recently consumed any cannabis product behaviors (e.g. smoke, eat, drink, vaporize, dab, other methods of consumption);
[See Table V.G.1. Risk and Protective Factors: Youth Cannabis Use]
- Perceived social norms of driving after cannabis use (i.e. how often do people you know [e.g. friends, peers, relatives] drive a motorized vehicle after cannabis consumption etc.); and [See Table V.G.1. Risk and Protective Factors: Youth Cannabis Use]
- Perceived risk of harm from driving after cannabis consumption (i.e. how risky do people perceive driving after cannabis consumption to be etc.).
[See Table V.G.1. Risk and Protective Factors: Youth Cannabis Use]

Appendix III: Associated Risk Factors Justification

This section draws on literature reviews whenever possible to provide a brief sense of current literature findings and justification for the logistical regression variables analyzed.

Table III.1. Risk and Protective Factors in the Literature

Concept/Measure	Evidence of Association
Active physically	A review (2018) identified mixed finding in regard to whether physical activity is associated with cannabis use among youth. ¹⁴⁶ In an analysis of the 2009 YRBS, Dunn 2014 found high levels of physical activity (5-7 days/week) and sports participation in two or more teams was a protective factor against cannabis use for females but not males. ¹⁴⁷
Adult Support	In a scoping literature review of recent addiction findings Kempf et al. 2017 report adult support, and particularly parental support, may be protective against substance use in youth. ¹⁴⁸
Anxiety	“The Health Effects of Cannabis and Cannabinoids” report (2017) found that there is limited evidence of an association between cannabis use and anxiety, but there is moderate evidence linking regular cannabis use to social anxiety disorder. Another literature review reports acute anxiety symptoms are a potential side effect of cannabis use, and found that chronic users have higher levels of anxiety disorders.¹⁴⁹ However, the review notes the relationship and any potential causality between these factors is unknown.¹⁴⁹ In gray literature, the Colorado Retail Marijuana Public Health Advisory Committee reviewed the literature and found mixed evidence as to whether adolescent and young adults who use cannabis were more likely than non-users to develop anxiety symptoms.¹⁵⁰
Bullying	Two meta-analyses found there is an association between substance use and those who bully and those who are bullied among youth. ^{151,152} A recent study, found this association persists for high schoolers and cannabis use, however it was not observed among middle schoolers. ¹⁵³ More broadly, there is evidence for an association between externalizing behaviors (i.e. outward negative behaviors, such as aggression, conduct problems, etc.) and cannabis use. ¹⁵⁴

Dating violence	In a metaanalysis and review of cannabis use and dating violence, Johnson et al. 2017 found there is an association between physical dating violence victimization and perpetration among adolescences and young adults. ¹⁵⁵
Depression	“The Health Effects of Cannabis and Cannabinoids” report (2017) found that cannabis use does not appear to increase likelihood of developing depression. ¹⁵⁶ In the gray literature, the Colorado Retail Marijuana Public Health Advisory Committee reviewed the literature and found mixed evidence as to whether adolescent and young adults who use cannabis were more likely than non-users to develop depression. ¹⁵⁰ Researchers have documented an association between depression and cannabis use. ¹⁵⁷
Forced sex/rape	A review of childhood sexual abuse found that most studies saw an association between and substance use and disorders, however some studies found no association. ¹⁵⁸ In a study of the children of U.S. veteran twins, Duncan et al. 2008 found childhood sexual assault increased risk of cannabis use disorder controlling for genetic and family risk, gender, and alcohol and conduct problems. ¹⁵⁹ In this sample, childhood physical assault did not have the same association. ¹⁵⁹
Generalized risk	Rather than specific risk factors for specific substances, there are general risk factors that apply to use of substances. ¹⁶⁰ Therefore, risk factors that put youth at risk for cannabis, tobacco, and alcohol use rather than one or the other substance. ¹⁶⁰ This suggests reducing risk factors for any substance may have an impact in reducing use of other substances, potentially maximizing prevention efforts.
Gun and weapon behaviors	In a literature review and metaanalyses, Chen and Wu 2016 found most studies found an association between substance use (not necessarily cannabis or youth specific) and gun behaviors; However, after controlling for confounding variables, researchers reached mixed conclusions as to whether an association remained.¹⁶¹ In many samples, the association between substance use and gun behaviors disappeared after controlling for mental health problems.¹⁶¹ No literature reviews assessing weapon behaviors and cannabis use were identified. In a study of Connecticut high schoolers in public school, Schepis et al. 2011 found carrying a weapon in past 30 days and a past year fight were associated with lifetime cannabis use among males and females.¹⁶²

Hopelessness	While no literature reviews were identified, a study of Dutch 11-15 year-olds found that hopelessness was associated with lifetime use of cannabis and use of more than one substance. ¹⁶³ Serafini et al. 2013 suggest screening for hopelessness could act as a prevention measure for cannabis use, along with other adverse associated outcomes (e.g. suicide). ¹⁶⁴
Other substance use	In a review of risk and protective factors for different substance use, Latimer et al. 2010 found past cigarette, alcohol, and other substance use are risk factors associated with youth cannabis use. ¹⁵⁷
Play video games	While no literature reviews were identified, Primack et al. 2009 examined media exposure and cannabis and alcohol use, authors found playing video games for more than a half hour per day compared to those who did not play or played for less than 30 minutes/day was a protective factor against lifetime cannabis use. ¹⁶⁵
Religious involvement	In review of protective factors, Stone et al. 2012 identified youth religiosity was associated with a lower likelihood of using substances in emerging adulthood, including cannabis. ¹⁵⁴ Nguyen and Newhill 2016 additionally found religiosity held as a protective factor across measured racial/ethnicity youth cohorts in a 2013 NSDUH sample. ¹⁶⁶
Risky driving behaviors	While no literature reviews were identified, Dunlop and Romer 2010 found car crash risk was associated with youth substance use generally (rather than specific to once substance or another). ¹⁶⁷ Authors suggested that youth who are bigger sensation seekers take more risks (e.g. risky driving, substance use). ¹⁶⁷ Likewise, Terry-McElrath et al. 2014 identified an association (not causation) between alcohol and cannabis youth and unsafe driving. ¹⁶⁸ In this sample, youth who used alcohol almost always while they were using cannabis had the most unsafe driving behaviors after alcohol and cannabis use. ¹⁶⁸
Risky sexual behaviors	In a meta-analysis, Ritchwood et al. 2015 found cannabis use was associated (in a small to moderate range) with risky sexual behaviors in youth. ¹⁶⁹ Interestingly, the review found few differences between different substances suggesting any substance use may be associated with risky sexual behavior. ¹⁶⁹ These associations were stronger for younger adolescences, females, and Hispanic, White, and Asian youth. ¹⁶⁹ Others have found more sexual partners, less condom use, and sex at an earlier are associated with cannabis use in youth. ^{157,170}

Schizophrenia and other psychoses	“The Health Effects of Cannabis and Cannabinoids” report (2017) reports an association between cannabis use and developing schizophrenia or other psychoses that is stronger for heavy users.¹⁵⁶ Other reviews also report an association between cannabis use and psychosis.¹⁷¹ In the gray literature, the Colorado Retail Marijuana Public Health Advisory Committee reviewed the literature and found substantial evidence that daily or near daily use by youth is associated with future psychosis disorders and future psychotic symptoms.¹⁵⁰ They also found substantial evidence that youth cannabis users were more likely to have psychotic symptoms compared to non-users, with increasing effects for more heavy use.¹⁵⁰
School performance (A’s and B’s)	In review, Bradley et al. 2013, found all association between higher academic achievement (e.g. GPA, grades (e.g. A’s and B’s), testing scores, graduating) and less likelihood of substance use.¹⁷² Feeling connected ones school may also act as a protective factor against substance use.¹⁵⁴
Self-harm	A literature review of self-harm and substance use found an association exists, but few papers examined cannabis use specifically.¹⁷³
Sexual minority youth (e.g. LGBTQ)	LGBTQ youth are at a greater risk of substance use, including cannabis, than their heterosexual and non-LGBTQ peers.¹⁷⁴ In a meta-analysis, Marshal et al. 2008 found LBGTO youth had a 2.58 times greater odds of having ever used cannabis compared to their straight peers.¹⁷⁴ These disparities appear largest for females and particularly bisexual females.¹⁷⁴⁻¹⁷⁶ In a review of risk and protective factors for sexual minority youth, Kidd et al. 2018 identified stigma, victimization, bullying, violence, PTSD symptoms as risk factors for cannabis use.¹⁷⁷ Higher socioeconomic status, feeling connected to school, self-esteem, parental attachment, and anti-discrimination polices were protective factors against sexual minority youth cannabis use.¹⁷⁷
Sports Team Involvement	A systematic review (2014) identified mixed findings as to whether cannabis use and sport involvement are associated among youth and young adults.¹⁷⁸
Suicidality	“The Health Effects of Cannabis and Cannabinoids” report (2017) found that heavy cannabis users have increased likelihood of suicidal thoughts

	compared to nonusers.¹⁵⁶ Another literature review does not find evidence that acute cannabis use is linked to risk for suicidality, but does find some evidence for an association between chronic cannabis use and suicidality.¹⁷⁹ However, this review emphasizes major gaps and limitations, noting that this research is in its very early stages.¹⁷⁹ In the gray literature, the Colorado Retail Marijuana Public Health Advisory Committee reviewed the literature and found limited evidence that youth and young adult cannabis users are more likely to have suicidal thoughts or attempts compared to non-users.¹⁵⁰
Watch television	While no literature reviews were identified, Primack et al. 2009 examined media exposure and cannabis and alcohol use, authors found no association between watching television for more than an hour per day and lifetime cannabis use compared to those who did not watch or watched for an hour or less per day.¹⁶⁵
Youth with Disabilities	Research suggests students with disabilities and chronic health conditions may be at a greater risk of substance use. However, there are major knowledge gaps in this literature base. In a meta-analysis, Lee et al. 2011 found that those with ADHD more likely than those without ADHD to have ever used cannabis, and to develop a cannabis use disorder.¹⁸⁰ An older analysis of national YRBS data (2005) found youth who reported a physical disability or long-term health problem had slightly higher odds (OR=1.2 CI: 1.01-1.4) of current cannabis use than their peers.¹⁸¹ However, a Canadian study of youth with chronic conditions found no difference in lifetime illicit substance use among compared to youth without chronic conditions.¹⁸² While there is very limited research on those with intellectual disabilities, researchers suggest these individuals may be at higher risk of negative outcomes from substance use.^{183,184} No literature reviews specific to youth with a learning disability were identified, however a Canadian longitudinal found youth with a learning disability used cannabis more often than peers without a learning disability.¹⁸⁵ In contrast, Evans et al. 2013 found no difference between cannabis use among students with learning disabilities and their peers without learning disabilities after controlling for a number of variables.¹⁸⁶

Appendix VI: Public Awareness Campaigns

Cannabis Public Awareness Campaigns: All States

A public awareness campaign is a comprehensive effort to educate a large audience to act toward a specified goal. A public awareness campaign rooted in a public health framework serves to promote public health by creating synergy between short-term mass media campaigns and long-term localized action.¹⁸⁷ Massachusetts is one of seven states that has implemented a comprehensive public awareness campaign to either inform constituents of the non-medical adult-use cannabis policies and provisions within their states and/or educate youth or parents about the harms of cannabis use for adolescents whose brains are still maturing.

Cannabis Public Awareness Campaign: Massachusetts

Based within a public health framework, Massachusetts’s cannabis public awareness campaign, More About Marijuana, is a collaboration between The Massachusetts Cannabis Control Commission (CNB), The Department of Public Health (DPH), and The Bureau of Substance Abuse Services (BSAS) within DPH, who contracted with MORE Advertising to collaboratively research, devise, and implement More About Marijuana in the Commonwealth.

The goals of the campaign are threefold:

1. Conduct research to assess the current knowledge of both:
 - a. Cannabis overall; and
 - b. Massachusetts Chapter 55, An Act to Ensure the Safe Access to Cannabis policy and provisions.
2. Develop the campaign based on research results. Research for this campaign consisted of two primary mechanisms:
 - a. Focus groups with pre-group surveys; and
 - b. Online (“pre” implementation) survey of Massachusetts residents 21≤. The campaign targets both the general population, as well as parents and youth. [See research methods and results below].
3. Implement the campaign to educate constituents on the varying provisions within the policy and potential harmful effects of using cannabis.

The implementation of the campaign has two waves. The first wave was implemented in August 2018 and targeted parents of youth. The second wave was implemented in winter 2019 and targeted a general audience.

Table VI.2. Public Awareness Campaign Pre/Post Questions About Youth Use

More About MJ – Youth Questions
1. If you were to keep marijuana in your home, would you store it in a locked storage area?
2. When a mother is breastfeeding, is it safe for her to use marijuana?
3. If a breastfeeding mother uses marijuana, is it possible this could have a long-term impact on her child's ability to learn?
4. When is the right time to begin to talk to your children about drugs and alcohol?
5. What approach is most effective: Let your child initiate conversations about alcohol and other drugs? Schedule a time to have a talk about alcohol and other drugs with your child? Or make it a point to have ongoing conversations about alcohol and other drugs with your child?
6. Think about your oldest child. How many conversations have you had with him or her about using alcohol and other drugs?
7. If you wanted to talk to your child about marijuana use, do you feel that you have the information and resources you need to have that conversation?
8. At what age are individuals old enough to try or use marijuana?
9. What grade would you give the state of Massachusetts so far at educating parents of youth about the legalization of marijuana (or marijuana in general)? [Grade-Point Average is calculated on a 4.0 scale, where A = 4, B = 3, C = 2, D = 1, F = 0.]
10. Which is true? The benefits and risks of using marijuana are the same for youth as they are for adults. The risks of using marijuana are greater for youth than they are for adults. The risks of using marijuana are greater for adults than they are for youth.

Chairman Hoffman said that it was very important to lock down the renewal process because licensees were relying on renewals to stay in business. Commissioner McBride said that the renewals at this meeting should be granted subject to the condition proposed, and then that those conditions should be added to guidance so licensees seeking future renewals would be on notice to comply. Commissioner Title asked again about data on consumer complaints. Mr. Collins responded that developing the best way to organize and quantify the data would take time to implement.

Commissioner McBride agreed that this would not satisfy the Commission's positive impact plan requirements. Chairman Hoffman recommended deferring a vote on the license renewal until the Commission's next meeting on August 8th, 2019. Commissioner Flanagan questioned whether further information from the licensee would be effective. General Counsel Christine Baily pointed out that it would be allowable to defer consideration until the next meeting, and that the enforcement and licensing staff had exercised its discretion in presenting material upon which the committee could make a decision. Commissioner Title requested a short break to confer with enforcement and licensing. After the recess, Chairman Hoffman asked Mr. Collins to comment on notification or enforcement actions that could be taken against the licensee. Commissioner McBride proposed a condition that the applicant provide further detail on planned production of food, oils and beverages. Commissioner Title proposed a condition that the applicant add measurable goals to the diversity plan. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the staff recommendation to issue a provisional license #MPN281331, subject to conditions requested by Commissioner McBride and Commissioner Title. The motion was made by Commissioner Flanagan, seconded by Commissioner Doyle. The Commission unanimously approved the motion.

Mr. Potvin discussed the applications for Haven Center, Inc.: (#MCN282072), Cultivation – Tier 2/Indoor and (#MPN281639), Product Manufacturing, which staff has recommended for approval of a provisional license subject to the conditions set forth in the executive summary. Commissioner McBride proposed a condition requesting more detail about the products to be manufactured at the facility. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the staff recommendation to issue provisional license #MCN282072. The motion was made by Commissioner Doyle, seconded by Commissioner Flanagan. The Commission unanimously approved the motion. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the staff recommendation to issue provisional license #MPN281639, subject to the condition requested by Commissioner McBride. The motion was made by Commissioner Flanagan, seconded by Commissioner Doyle. The Commission unanimously approved the motion.

Mr. Potvin discussed the application for Krypies, LLC (#MRN281594), Retail, which staff has recommended for approval of a provisional license subject to the conditions set forth in the executive summary. Commissioner Flanagan requested clarification on how the applicant's advertising plan would avoid targeting persons under age 21. Commissioner Title proposed a condition that the applicant add measurable goals to the diversity plan and a condition that the word "Krypies" be investigated to determine if it is a colloquial term for cannabis. Commissioner Doyle requested that staff's first condition be amended to make clear that final license review would include an examination of the applicant's operating policies and procedures. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the staff recommendation to issue provisional license #MRN281594, subject to the conditions requested by Commissioners Flanagan, Title and Doyle. The motion was made by Commissioner Doyle, seconded by Commissioner Title. The Commission unanimously approved the motion.

The Commission turned to a reconsideration of a previously denied license. General Counsel Christine Baily discussed the process of reconsideration. Ms. Baily outlined the limited instances in which the Commission might allow reconsideration of a licensee's application. Mr. Collins discussed the application for reconsideration of Mass Yield Cultivation, LLC., (#MCN281392), Cultivation – Tier 2 / Indoor, whose initial application for licensure was denied on April 25, 2019. Mr. Collins noted that the application was denied based on an insufficient Positive Impact Plan. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion regarding the petition for reconsideration of Mass Yield Cultivation, LLC #MCN281392. Ms. Baily requested that the motion include a delegation of authority to Commission staff to evaluate possible future petitions for reconsideration as well. Mr. Collins said that the delegation of authority was a separate issue from the specific petition under discussion. Commissioner Doyle added that the Commission should be promptly informed of any petition for reconsideration received by staff. Commissioner Doyle then made a motion to delegate to staff the authority to screen petitions for reconsideration and to notify the Commission of their determinations. The motion was seconded by Commissioner Flanagan. The Commission unanimously approved the motion. Chairman Hoffman next asked for a motion to consider the petition for reconsideration of Mass Yield Cultivation, LLC #MCN281392. The motion was made by Commissioner Doyle, seconded by Commissioner McBride. The Commission unanimously approved the motion.

Commissioner Flanagan began the discussion by expressing her concern that applicant's Positive Impact Plan contains material regarding the beneficial and medicinal effects of cannabis that violates the Commission's regulation against marketing that asserts products are safe or have therapeutic effects, and that this shows the applicant's misinterpretation of the purpose of the Positive Impact plan. Commissioner Title agreed. Chairman Hoffman acknowledged that the applicant made a good-faith effort to improve the Positive Impact Plan and the other aspects of the plan were a substantial improvement. Commissioner McBride noted that the petition for reconsideration was allowed because of changes in the Commission's own regulations. Commissioner Flanagan said that the applicant should reconsider distributing flyers on college campuses to avoid marketing to persons under 21. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the staff recommendation for reconsideration and granting of provisional license #MCN281392 subject to the conditions proposed by Commissioner Flanagan and Commissioner Title. Commissioner McBride made the motion, and Commissioner Title clarified that the conditions involve resubmitting the Positive Impact Plan to make it compliant with existing marketing regulations. The motion was seconded by Commissioner Doyle. The motion was approved by the Commission with a vote of four in favor (Doyle, Hoffman, McBride and Title) to one against (Flanagan).

After a short recess, the Commission turned to the change of control application. Mr. Potvin discussed the application of Curaleaf Massachusetts, Inc., noting that this would affect five provisional adult use licenses and two medical treatment center licenses. Staff recommended approval of the change of control subject to the conditions set forth in the executive summary. Commissioner Title asked if the applicant had any explanation for why the transaction occurred without the required prior approval of the Commission. Director of Investigations Patrick Beyea responded that the applicants claimed it was not a change of control because the principals' stock ownership percentages did not change. Mr. Potvin said that the Commission's process for requesting change of control was being updated when the transaction took place. Chairman Hoffman asked for a timeline of the process changes. Enforcement Counsel Paul Payer outlined the timeline for the adult use licenses, noting that the change of control transaction was completed on October 25, 2018. The Commission's change of control application form became available on or about January 19, 2019 and Curaleaf submitted its application on February 9, 2019.

Commissioner Title commented that the regulations required prior approval for a change of control and the lack of a form or process did not obviate that requirement. Commissioner Doyle agreed with Commissioner Title and asked if perhaps the applicant had requested a form and was denied. Chairman Hoffman asked if there had been any communications between the applicant and Commission staff prior to the February 2019 submission. Mr. Beyea said that he had contacted the applicant in November 2018 after learning of the October 2018 transaction and that the company told him they had not done anything wrong. Chief of Enforcement Yaw Gyebi added that to his knowledge there was no formal request from the company for a form. Mr. Collins commented that there are often ongoing conversations between applicants and Commission staff, and also pointed out that enforcement issued a deficiency notice to the company on June 21st regarding this matter. Chairman Hoffman and Ms. Baily discussed the status of the license if the Commission did not approve the change of control application. Mr. Potvin said that Curaleaf Massachusetts would still hold the license. Chairman Hoffman laid out the voting options for the Commission and confirmed with Ms. Baily that even if the applicant were approved the Commission had discretion to impose enforcement actions. Commissioner McBride said that she had multiple questions about the transaction to discuss with counsel and staff. Chairman Hoffman proposed deferring a vote on the issue until the August 8th meeting to allow for Commissioners to gather information, or whether the Commission ought not to even consider the application for change of control given the applicant's violation. After a brief recess, Commissioner McBride made a motion to defer a vote until the next meeting in order to allow Commission staff to discuss the situation and options with Commissioners in the interim. The motion was seconded by Commissioner Doyle. The Commission unanimously approved the motion. Mr. Collins stated that the applicant has been cooperative in its ongoing interactions with Commission staff.

The Commission next turned to a discussion of new guidance for applicants' Positive Impact Plans. Commissioner Title explained that the change would allow license renewal applicants seeking to contribute to the Commission's proposed Social Equity Technical Assistance Fund as part of their Plan to instead make contribution to other funds that would have the same goals. Commissioner Flanagan asked about oversight of these contributions. Commissioner Title replied that oversight is not specified as it could be one of multiple entities. Commissioner Doyle suggested that the Commission make changes during the fall to its regulations regarding the social equity leadership award. Commissioner Title made motion to approve the proposed change to the Positive Impact Plan guidance, seconded by Commissioner Doyle. The Commission unanimously approved the motion.

The Commission turned to discussion of the public awareness campaign. Director of Communications Cedric Sinclair presented information about the reach of the current campaign. Mr. Sinclair described the upcoming campaign about the dangers of home manufacturing of cannabis and the redesigned MoreAboutMJ.Org website. Commissioner Flanagan expressed her view of the need to strike a balance between publicizing the legalized industry and providing information, especially to youth, about the health issues involved.

Chairman Hoffman discussed the Commission's upcoming public meetings, then asked for a motion to adjourn. The motion was made by Commissioner Doyle, seconded by Commissioner Flanagan, and approved unanimously. The meeting was adjourned at 5:00 PM.

Chairman Hoffman called the meeting to order at 12:00 PM. Chairman Hoffman put the public on notice that the meeting is being recorded. Chairman Hoffman said that the Commission would be holding its public meetings monthly beginning in September 2019. Chairman Hoffman proposed a change to the order of items in the agenda, to which the commissioners agreed.

Executive Director Shawn Collins introduced the Commission's new Associate General Counsel Alyssa DeAngelis, then presented his report on license, agent and social equity program applications.

Chairman Hoffman turned to the request for change of location of Canna Provisions, Inc. (#MR281778, Retail). Director of Licensing Kyle Potvin discussed the licensee's application, which staff has recommended for approval subject to the conditions set forth in the executive summary. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the staff recommendation. The motion was made by Commissioner McBride, seconded by Commissioner Doyle. The Commission unanimously approved the motion.

Chairman Hoffman turned to consideration of final licenses. Mr. Potvin discussed the application for 253 Organic, LLC (#MR281245), Retail, which staff has recommended for approval of a final license subject to the conditions set forth in the executive summary. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the staff recommendation. The motion was made by Commissioner Doyle, seconded by Commissioner McBride. The Commission approved the motion with four votes in favor (Doyle, Flanagan, Hoffman, McBride) with Commissioner Title abstaining.

Mr. Potvin discussed the application for Solar Therapeutics, Inc. (#MR281817), Retail, which staff has recommended for approval of a final license subject to the conditions set forth in the executive summary. Commissioner McBride asked if all employees were registered as agents. Mr. Potvin answered that a significant proportion had and that all employees on site during inspection were registered agents. Commissioner Doyle commended the applicant on their attention to energy efficiency. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the staff recommendation. The motion was made by Commissioner Doyle, seconded by Commissioner McBride. The Commission unanimously approved the motion.

Chairman Hoffman turned to consideration of provisional licenses. Mr. Potvin discussed the application for Berkshire Roots, Inc. (#MRN281845), Retail, which staff has recommended for approval of a provisional license subject to the conditions set forth in the executive summary. Commissioner Flanagan proposed a condition that the applicant's Positive Impact Plan identify other Disproportionately Impacted Areas that will be affected by the license. Commissioner McBride asked if the Commission had received any patient complaints about the applicant's existing colocated MTC/adult us facility in Pittsfield. Mr. Collins replied that there have been complaints that have been investigated by Enforcement staff, and that inspections have found that the applicant is in compliance with regulations. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the staff recommendation with the addition of the condition proposed by Commissioner Flanagan. The motion was made by Commissioner McBride, seconded by Commissioner Doyle. The Commission unanimously approved the motion.

Mr. Potvin discussed the application for Ipswich Pharmaceutical Associates, Inc. (#MRN281571), Retail, which staff has recommended for approval of a provisional license subject to the conditions set forth in the executive summary. Commissioner Doyle asked how long the applicant had had its MTC license. Commissioner Flanagan asked for clarification on an element of the applicant's Positive Impact Plan and expressed concern that the applicant's plan to advertise on college campus would violate the Commission's marketing regulations. Commissioner Title proposed a condition to revise the Diversity Plan to clarify its definition of "equity recruit." Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the staff recommendation with the addition of the condition proposed by Commissioners Flanagan and Title. The motion was made by Commissioner Doyle, seconded by Commissioner McBride. The Commission unanimously approved the motion.

Mr. Potvin discussed the two applications for New England Cannabis Corporation, Inc.: (#MCN281251), Cultivation – Tier 4/Indoor and (#MPN281466), Product Manufacturing, which staff have recommended for approval of provisional licenses subject to the conditions set forth in the executive summary. Commissioner McBride proposed a condition regarding further clarification on the products the applicant intends to manufacture, including fruit gummies, lollipops and bars. Commissioner McBride asked for further clarification on the applicant’s plan for securing its limited access areas. Commissioner McBride requested that the applicant revise its security plan to conform with the Commission’s regulations for storage of video footage. Commissioner McBride further commented that applicants are responsible for the content of their submissions, even if those submissions were prepared by outside consultants or advisors, and that applicants should not be submitting generic or boilerplate materials. Commissioner Doyle asked how long the applicant had had its MTC license. Commissioner Flanagan requested a condition that the applicant provide a letter from the beneficiary of its Positive Impact Plan donation. Commissioner Title proposed conditions that the applicant revise the definition of “diverse workforce” in its Diversity Plan, rename its “Rice Krispie treat” product to remove the trademarked name and fully redo the Positive Impact Plan to include specific, measurable ways by which the applicant will have a positive impact in its community. Chairman Hoffman noted that the conditions proposed by Commissioner Flanagan and Commissioner Title overlapped and could be combined. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the staff recommendation for #MCN281251- Cultivation, with the addition of the conditions proposed by Commissioners Title and Flanagan regarding the Positive Impact Plan and diverse workforce definition and by Commissioner McBride regarding the SOP and Security plans. The motion was made by Commissioner Doyle, seconded by Commissioner Flanagan. The Commission unanimously approved the motion. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the staff recommendation for #MPN281466 - Product Manufacturing, with the addition of the conditions proposed by Commissioner Flanagan regarding the product list and Commissioner Title regarding removal of trademark in a product name. The motion was made by Commissioner Doyle, seconded by Commissioner Flanagan. The Commission unanimously approved the motion.

Chairman Hoffman turned to enforcement actions against M3 Ventures, Inc. (“M3”) and Curaleaf Massachusetts, Inc. (“Curaleaf”). Regarding the proposed settlement with M3, Commissioner McBride asked how Enforcement staff arrived at the $50,000 fine. Enforcement Counsel Paul Payer explained that the licensee had been in compliance with regulations during the pendency of the enforcement proceeding, and combined with mitigating factors put forward during negotiations, including changes the licensee made in its cultivation department in direct response to the violations. Mr. Payer confirmed to Commissioner McBride that the licensee would be in a probationary period through the end of 2019. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the staff recommendation for settlement with M3 Ventures, Inc. The motion was made by Commissioner Doyle, seconded by Commissioner McBride. The Commission unanimously approved the motion.

Mr. Payer then discussed the final order and stipulated agreement with Curaleaf. Commissioner McBride asked what steps the licensee has taken to correct the violation. Mr. Payer replied that the licensee had disclosed an additional indirect owner after a request for information from Enforcement, and that lack of disclosure, though incorrect, was not made in bad faith. Commissioner McBride asked if Enforcement believed that the licensee had provided adequate assurance of its understanding of the statutory caps on cultivation area and license types allowable for an owner. Mr. Payer answered that the licensee's statement of license acquisition was made in error and that the licensee did not intend to acquire more than the statutory limit. The canopy cap transaction is still an Enforcement issue. Commissioner McBride asked how the $250,000 amount of the fine was arrived at. Mr. Payer discussed the criteria considered in the dispute resolution process and how the fine served as a sufficient deterrent to prevent other licensees from avoiding Commission oversight of change of control transactions. Commissioner Title added that the lack of a form to comply with a regulatory requirement does not make that requirement optional. Commissioner McBride asked if any other deficiencies were identified during the investigation. Mr. Payer said that there were no operational deficiencies found, which contributed to the decision not to suspend or revoke Curaleaf's license. Prior to the Commission's vote, Mr. Payer said that the agreement would only take effect if the Commission voted to approve the change of control transaction and that submission of the transaction for the Commission's approval would constitute corrective action to remedy the deficiency. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the staff recommendation for final order and stipulated agreement with Curaleaf. The motion was made by Commissioner McBride, seconded by Commissioner Doyle. The Commission unanimously approved the motion. Next, Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the staff recommendation for change of control. The motion was made by Commissioner Doyle, seconded by Commissioner McBride. The Commission unanimously approved the motion.

The Chairman turned to the matter of license renewals. Mr. Potvin discussed the eight renewals, stating that staff recommends renewal of all licenses subject to continued compliance with Commission regulations and applicable law. Discussing the renewal of Pharmacannis Massachusetts license # MRR205523, Retail, Commissioner Flanagan commented that the Commission should review the licensee's Positive Impact Plan more closely. Commissioner Title proposed a condition that the licensee report within 60 days on progress made toward implementing the Positive Impact Plan so that the Commission could compare with other licensees in similar situations. Commissioner McBride asked for clarification on what information would be collected to make the comparisons. Mr. Collins suggested sending a questionnaire to other licensees. Chairman Hoffman suggested that the licensing staff determine a process for gathering that information that would be presented at the Commission's next meeting. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the staff recommendation for renewal of Pharmacannis Massachusetts license # MRR205523, subject to the addition of the condition proposed by Commissioner Title. The motion was made by Commissioner Doyle, seconded by Commissioner McBride. The Commission unanimously approved the motion.

The Commission turned to the three license renewals for M3 Ventures, Inc. Commissioner Title proposed that the licensee revise its goals in the Diversity Plan. Commissioner Doyle asked what progress the licensee had made toward its final license. Mr. Potvin explained that the enforcement action undertaken against M3 was an obstacle to final licensure and with the settlement approved, M3 would move forward with final licensure. Mr. Payer added that no deficiencies were found upon re-inspection. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the staff recommendation for renewal of M3 Ventures, Inc.'s, license #MCR139824-Cultivation, subject to the addition of the condition proposed by Commissioner Title. The motion was made by Commissioner McBride, seconded by Commissioner Doyle. The Commission unanimously approved the motion. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the staff recommendation for renewal of M3 Ventures, Inc.'s, license #MPR243481-Product Manufacturing, subject to the addition of the condition proposed by Commissioner Title. The motion was made by Commissioner Doyle, seconded by Commissioner McBride. The Commission unanimously approved the motion.

Commissioner Title proposed a condition that the licensee provide an update to its Diversity Plan to address items not covered in the renewal materials. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the staff recommendation for renewal of I.N.S.A, Inc.'s, license #MCR139827-Cultivation, subject to the addition of the condition proposed by Commissioner Title. The motion was made by Commissioner McBride, seconded by Commissioner Doyle. The Commission unanimously approved the motion. The motion was made by Commissioner Doyle, seconded by Commissioner McBride. The Commission unanimously approved the motion. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the staff recommendation for renewal of I.N.S.A, Inc.'s, license #MPR243482-Product Manufacturing, subject to the addition of the condition proposed by Commissioner Title. The motion was made by Commissioner Doyle, seconded by Commissioner Flanagan. The Commission unanimously approved the motion.

The Commission turned to the license renewal for Alternative Therapies Group, Inc. Commissioner Title proposed a condition that the licensee provide an update on its progress toward measuring staff diversity. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the staff recommendation for renewal of Alternative Therapies Group, Inc.'s, license #MRR205528-Retail, subject to the addition of the condition proposed by Commissioner Title. The motion was made by Commissioner McBride, seconded by Commissioner Doyle. The Commission unanimously approved the motion.

The Commission turned to a discussion of proposed guidance documents. Commissioner Doyle spoke about the newly launched Responsible Vendor Training application process. Commissioner Doyle said that trainers should be independent from marijuana establishments, but the guidance allows for participation of marijuana establishment employees as well. The guidance is intended to provide ethical guardrails for participation of industry entities and employees to provide their expertise in training programs. Chairman Hoffman requested clarification on what activities might be considered exploitative marketing in the context of a training program. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the Responsible Vendor Training guidance document, subject to ministerial changes. The motion was made by Commissioner McBride, seconded by Commissioner Flanagan. The Commission unanimously approved the motion. Chairman Hoffman then turned to updates on guidance for license renewals. Commissioner McBride discussed the first update, a request that on renewal colocated marijuana retailers provide information on what constitutes a sufficient quantity and variety of marijuana and marijuana products consistent with regulations and its policies and procedures regarding a reasonable substitution for medical marijuana products. Commissioner Doyle discussed the second update, regarding compliance with local ordinances or bylaws such as zoning districts and permitting. Commissioner Title proposed a condition that guidance include retailers provide pictures of product labels when applying for renewal. Commissioner Title commented that licensee seeking renewal could provide an updated Diversity Plan as an option. Commissioner Title asked for a different way of measuring costs imposed on municipalities by marijuana retailers, but that discussion was tabled until the upcoming meeting addressing revised regulations. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to approve the updated License Renewal guidance document, subject to the revisions from Commissioner McBride and Commissioner Doyle, the condition proposed by Commissioner Title and any ministerial changes. The motion was made by Commissioner McBride, seconded by Commissioner Doyle. The Commission unanimously approved the motion.

With no additional items on the agenda, Chairman Hoffman discussed the upcoming Commission public meeting scheduled for September 5, the public hearings for August 14 and 15 and the conclusion of the public comment period at 5 P.M. on August 15. Chairman Hoffman asked for a motion to adjourn the meeting. The motion was made by Commissioner Doyle, seconded by Commissioner McBride.
